

Party for Scholars

Members of the Louis Jordan Commemorative Scholarship Foundation held their annual fish-fry fundraiser on Saturday at the Sammy Davis Jr. Festival Plaza in Lorenzi Park. The event was lively and entertaining.

The Louis Jordan Foundation is a nonprofit organization that was established to provide scholarships in the name of the late Louis Jordan to aid young women and men in their quest to further their education.

Martha Jordan, the widow of Louis Jordan, who serves as President/Treasurer, organized the Foundation in 1994.

Since 1994, the Louis Jordan Foundation has provided approximately $45,000 in scholarships to 40 deserving students.
