

Las Vegas gives glory to the King

Thousands of Las Vegas lined the streets of downtown Las Vegas to celebrate the memory of slain civil rights activist Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. As usual, the parade was an educational and entertaining affair. There were floats with messages of inspiration and hope, along with youth group step teams, middle school and high school bands, fraternities and sororities, cheerleading squads, churches and more.

Sentinel-Voice photos by
Ramon Savoy and
Kathi Overstreet

