

Denmark embassy shut over drawing

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) - Libya said Sunday it was closing its embassy in Denmark to protest drawings of the prophet Muhammad in a Danish newspaper as anger over the controversy spread across the Middle East.

"Due to Danish authorities not taking a responsible stance in this concern, Libya has decided to close its (embassy) in Copenhagen," said a statement from Libya's Foreign Ministry. The statement said other measures would be taken but did not elaborate.

Islam bars any depiction of the prophet, even respectful ones, out of concern that such images could lead to idolatry.

Danish government officials have expressed regret for the furor caused by the 12 drawings but have refused to get involved, citing freedom of expression.

The Jyllands-Posten newspaper has refused to apologize for publishing the drawings and has said it did not mean to insult Islam.

On Sunday, it printed a statement in Arabic addressed to Saudis who had initiated a boycott of Danish goods.

It said the drawings were published as part of a Danish dialogue about freedom of expression but were misinterpreted "as if it were a campaign against Muslims in Denmark and in the Islamic world."

On Sunday, Jordanian Foreign Minister Abdul-Ilah Khatib summoned the Danish ambassador to protest against what he said was an "intentional insult of Islam, its message and its honorable Prophet," the official Petra news agency reported. It said Khatib insisted that there must be measures taken to ensure no "recurrence of such violations."
