

With tourism bringing billions of dollars to our community,
what happens here stays here in more ways than you'd think.

In 2005, Las Vegas welcomed 38.6 million visitors for a total economic impact of $36.7 billion. More than 18,000 new tourism jobs were created, and millions of dollars generated by tourism went back into the community to help fund schools, roads and parks. What happens here really does stay here, and the benefits extend well beyond our fabulous resorts. Everyone wins. Congratulations, Las Vegas, on another successful year.

Sponsored by the Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority