

ARTISTRY OF YOUTH

"Children Out of the Box... Exploring Their Freedom" by the Performing and Visual Arts Camp students showcased talents during their season finale performances on Saturday at the West Las Vegas Library Theatre. The students entertained an overflow crowd of more than 300 guests in a two-hour program of artistic skills ranging from drama to limber acrobatics, song, music, African rhythms, contemporary and classical dance movements. They also displayed creative art, stage and costume design skills. The 10-year-old program is based at the West Las Vegas Arts Center. PVAC trains more than 50 students, ages 10 to 15, led by a stellar team of professional, renown instructors during the summer camp program.

Sentinel-Voice photos by John Broussard

