MANY CHRISTMAS DAYS

FROM MY earliest childhood Christmas has been a season of happiness, always mixed with regret that I could not do great and fine things for those most dear to me. To this, my ninety-first Christmas, that same feeling of futility and regret stays with me, yet with the knowledge that if one remembers those near and dear to him with a token that shows devotion, we have fulfilled the spirit with which we celebrate the Birthday of Christ.

In this story I shall tell you of some of my personal happiness year after year; also a bit of the Christmas history of Las Vegas.

Two things still remain in my memory as being the pure essence of Christmas. Each year during my childhood as the Christmas holidays approached, I wondered if my father and mother really (I knew they were "Santa Claus") but even yet can't quite bring myself to admit it, would be able to afford them — the two great things I wanted for my Christmas — a "Chatterbox" and a year's subscription to "The Youth's Companion."

The Chatterbox was a gaily printed book with pages about seven by nine inches in size and about an inch thick. It was full of wonderful stories and remained my treasure until the next Christmas. "The Youth's Companion" was a weekly paper devoted entirely to young folks, with a wonderful lot of things which could be had as premiums for new subscriptions. It was published by Perry Mason & Co., of Boston, Mass., and seemed as stable and enduring as the pyramids them-

The Christmas I Shall Never Forget

THE YULETIDE Season is one that seems to create a memory-stabbing binge for most persons. Inevitably, where relatives or close friends are gathered together during the holidays, enjoying a roaring fire and hot buttered rum, the conversation takes a reminiscing tangent.

"Did I ever tell you about the worst Christmas I ever spent in my crazy life?" someone will ask.

"That reminds me of that foxhole in France on Christmas Day," another will say.

"Oh, brother! I'll never forget that Christmas spent in a downed plane in Kansas! How I was chosen to live and the others to die — well, I'll just never understand it!"

Poverty, illness, war, economic crises, death. Strange that it isn't the joys we have shared together that bind us more closely together, but the tragedies shared. Perhaps it is because tragedy brings out the best or worst in us, as the case may be. It isn't what happens to us that matters so much, but the manner in which we react to that which happens; and it is human to reminisce and relive those experiences on past Christmas days which brought into sharp focus the true self.

In times of stress, physical or emotional, it is then that we must turn to something greater than ourselves, remove ourselves from the orbit of self thinking and hang on for dear life to that which we believe. Everyone believes in something, and it sometimes does not reflect until we are confronted with the loss of self in a miasma of failure. Failure as a person, the worst failure of all.

I can remember many Christmases, fleetingly. The Christmas when poverty slinked in and challenged my philosophy; the Christmas when the tree was loaded with everything from delicate lingerie to hundred dollar bills for me and mine; the Christmas I went hungry to pay the board and room for my child's care, and so that she might have everything she expected Santa to bring; the Christmas when three checks came rolling in from publishers for three fiction stories, one of which won the $1,000 prize, and I blew it all on those I loved; the Christmas morning when I was eight and I had to put on a big act as to being surprised, when I knew very well everything that was in every package under the tree (I had been left alone in the house a few days before and had made a search that made the FBI look like amateurs); the first Christmas, in 1953, that I had ever spent alone, without child, family, relatives or close friends, sitting in the deserted Coffee Shop of the El Playtel Motel on the FLV "Strip," feeling miserable — until I learned that the young desk clerk had tried to commit suicide; later, a few straggler tenants came into the dull, dreary room and we shared coffee, we the lonely ones, and because Death came so near to one we all loved, we talked more down to earth than ordinarily; and I remember how much I learned that day about people, because a shill, a cocktail waitress, a "bad girl" (so called), and a dealer's wife, all surprised me right off my props with their depth of character and higher education, not to mention their generosity when we took up a collection and headed for the City Jail to see the young clerk on Christmas; and then after what we had witnessed in that awful place we all came out and breathed deeply of God's fresh air and freedom, and none of us felt lonely any more. If we felt anything greater than that fresh air, it was the bond that we, shill, the cocktail waitress, the "bad girl," the dealer's wife, and I, the writer, had established between us on this Christmas day and one that all the years to come would never breach.

All those Christmases I remember only fleetingly, the exact details of which I would have to dwell upon concentratedly to write about coherently. But there is one Christmas that I shall never forget, right down

ONCE AGAIN it is time for us to wonder exactly where this year has flown. It has moved with such amazing rapidity even the swift wings of Mercury would have proved a poor second by comparison. However, we don't mind how quickly the hands of the clock fly when they arrive at the hour that inspires us to shout, MERRY CHRISTMAS ONE AND ALL. . . .The Yule season is one the entire family enjoys. It's the period that finds everyone agreeing! "It's good to be home," sharing the happiness of Christmas with our loved ones. What a wonderful tenderness a family group experiences while joining in the chorus, "O Come, All Ye Faithful," "Silent Night," or, "God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen."

No matter how you try, you'll never find an inner peace to equal the one you sense during this portion of the year. . . . Nothing is quite so cheerful or as awe-inspiring as the family tree at Christmas time. Our most fervent prayer is that each house has the holiday emblem, filled with sparkling decorations and emblazoned with colorful lights. . . .

For weeks before the great day, the family nostrils begin to quiver, in anticipation of the wonderful delicacies that will soon fill the home with their delightful aromas. . . . Packages have been wrapped with such loving care, the recipients show disfavor at disturbing the attractive exteriors, but — as usual — curiosity of the contents proves victor.

It's a grand and glorious time that stimulates unity among fellow humans and makes a person believe he could live happily for all times if only this seasonal disposition could prevail throughout the entire year. . . .

We sincerely pray that each of you will remember to attend your respective churches to give thanks for your blessings. . . .

Once again may we extend the greetings of this Holiday Season. Try to enjoy your bounty, whatever its size, and forget the tribulations that befall your group on other days. This is your 24 hour inheritance of peace and contentment . . . and that's for sure. . . .

Front Cover: A reminder to attend the Induction Dinner for the VARIETY CLUB TENT NO. 39 at the RIVIERA HOTEL, January 10th.

JOE W. BROWN (of the HORSESHOE CLUB) was expected back in FLV to take action on his Race Track option. (Involved was a cool two million, six hundred and fifty thousand dollars.)

The MILTON PRELLS (of the HOTEL SAHARA) presided over the wedding reception given JULIE WILSON and HARVEY BERNHARD. JUDGE MENDOZA welded the union in the Prell's magnificent manse. . . .

On December 26th a host of friends gathered at WILBUR CLARK'S palatial residence to help him celebrate his birthday.

At the SANDS HOTEL, a gleaming silver dollar was given every patron on New Year's Eve. Distaff celebrants in the Copa Room were presented with satin purses, each lined with twenty-five silver dollars. It was reputed that $50,000 was thusly distributed.

An Accurate Glimpse of the Future

CRISWELL PREDICTS

My Dear Friend,

WHY SHOULD we fear 1957, when 1957 will be merely a continuation of 1956? The feeble shadows that were cast in 1956 have become fullfledged events! The tiny faults we had in 1956, have become, now, major ones! The small ache or pain of 1956, will result in serious illness or perhaps even death, to a great many people! Today, tomorrow, every day, to the end of the world, there need not be fear! You and I walk along the earth, with the great cathedral of the sky above us! We can see the light of the sun stream down from above! We can feel the soft winds on our face! We can bathe in the moonlight! But why do we fear the future? Why do we cringe at the very word tomorrow? There is only one reason! We are afraid to mount the narrow staircase which leads from this world into the next!

My friend, out of all eternity this is the only moment over which you and I have complete control! Five minutes ago belonged to the past, and five minutes from now belongs to the future! We can do very little about the time that has passed, but we certainly can do something about the time that is to come! But, we can do more about the present, which is NOW!

Let us fearlessly look ahead, and I will predict through trend, precedent, pattern of habit, human behavior and the unalterable law of cycle, what is to be in your future in 1957!

What will our miracle men of medicine bring forth? What will our miracle men of science invent? What will the leaders of the world do to affect your life?

All of these things will influence you and your loved ones, whether you want them to or not! You may try to live in your own personal shell, but we are all in one boat together, sailing the wide blue yonder, the sea of life!

Let us view our spinning world from a distance! You and I are a thousand miles away, looking down impersonally on a spinning globe, the planet Earth! There are millions of other planets around the earth, but we are not concerned with them, for they each have their trials, tribulations, wars, worries and problems! You and I are impersonally looking at Mother Earth, and this is 1957!

My friend, I predict from advanced Wall Street financial charts, advanced weather forecasts, plus a thousand other trends, which will make themselves felt one year in advance!

I predict that the number one news story and event of 1957, will be the complete freedom of Ireland from the Crown! For centuries, this condition has smoldered, but in 1957 it will break into open rebellion. History has a way of repeating itself, and the same things happen, but to a different cast of characters! As every colony in the world has some time reached the cycle for independence, so will Erin! The time is 1957 for the complete freedom of Ireland! You will read amazing accounts on the front pages of your newspaper! You will hear thousands of words by your favorite radio and television news commentators! You will see motion pictures based on this final struggle for Irish independence! The independence will be won through women, who will defy convention and CHRISTMAS CONFETTI: We are at the edge of another year. There is somber thinking on one hand; there is merry making on the other. Perhaps balancing the two, keeping the happy medium, fixing the needle point that rates human emotions at an even fifty, is the really different way of life. It may be one individual measure that sets this nation apart from all others. Whatever the method, whatever the force, each year, for nearly two hundred, we have come to gather as one big family group at one huge Christmas tree, (mythical, perhaps in the physical, but almost touchable in the spiritual) to take inventory, as a nation, and compare the stock of friendship, goodwill, contributions to peace, and graph-like — our ups and downs as a thriving country in a not so progressive world around us.

Christmas is an annual stop light for those persons who speed without regard to direction or rules. The Holy Day, natal anniversary of a timeless international immortal, is more than the birthday of the Christ child; it has become much more than a high holiday of the christian calendar. December 25th is a symbol today that reaches out and touches Hebrew, Hindu, Moslem and practically every other religion on earth. It has turned out to be a glorious respect that man has for his fellow man. The extra light in the stars at this time of year is a widespread beacon that girdles the globe. It spotlights tranquility, singles out benign people, throws a halo around humane humanity and attempts to shine rays of purity and charity on even the worst 'before' of a 'before and after' Scrooge.

Santa Claus, church bells, mistletoe, presents, kiddies, prayer, hope, kindness, cheer, the exchange of cards — all of these have been embraced by Americans to a greater degree than all the nations of the world put together. For years we have felt there is a reason. We trust it is not sacrilegious to believe that this one nation under God has a role carved out for itself. Judging by the care with which favor and fortune have been bestowed upon us — so often and in such bountiful quantity — this Union of ours appears to have a destiny prearranged by the highest force. We are now so tough skinned, so really united, so single of purpose and so strong in productivity that no enemies from within, no Nassers or Perons or Communist terrors will weaken our structure, slow down our forward course, or mangle our maneuverability.

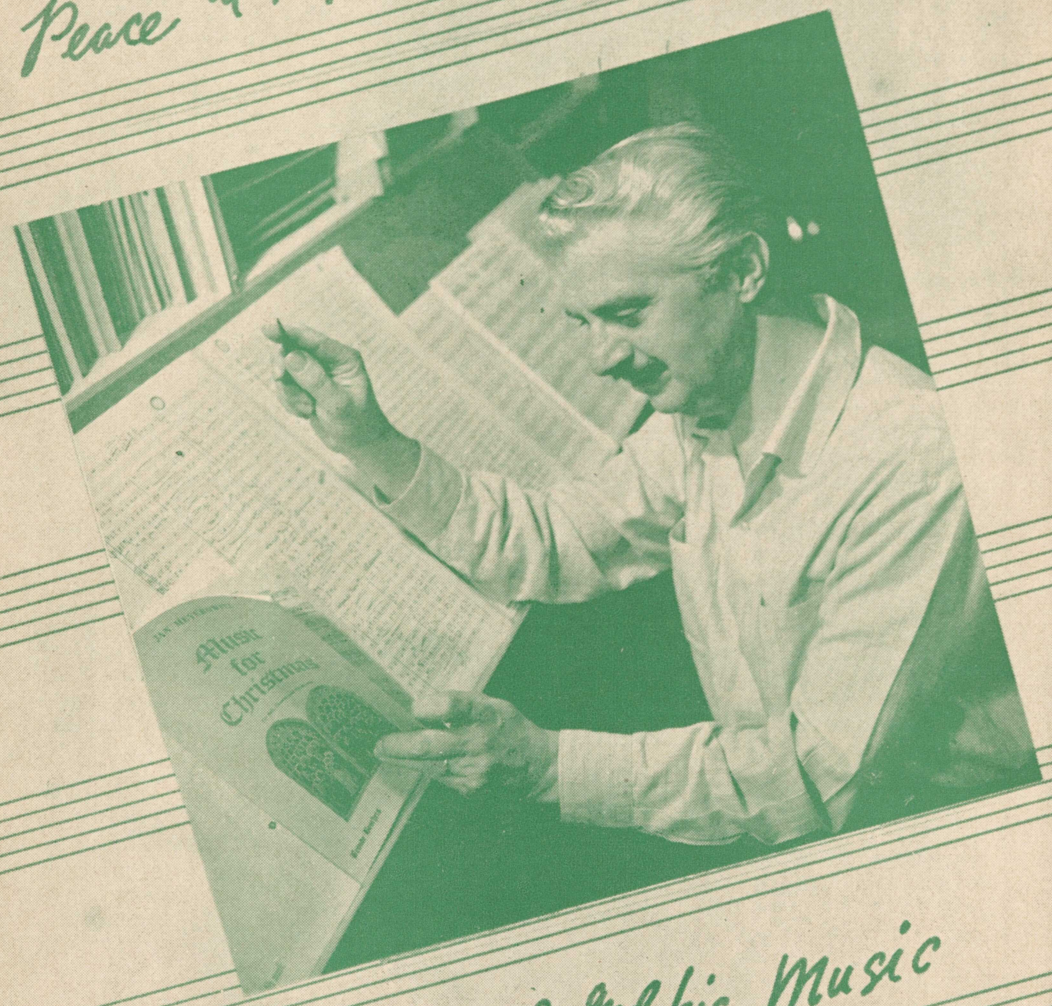

To this writer, the year 1956 has had numerical signifance. It is no milestone, so far as American anniversaries are concerned, but the total of the figures, with no thought whatsoever to numerology, adds up to 21. A score and one means maturity and we have, over a rough road at times, shown the universe that we can travel onward to a better life for a majority of people. Though prosperity has graced the land of the United States with more regularity than it has touched any other part of the world, the American citizenry can take honor away and experience justifiable pride in the fact that at no time in the modern era have we turned our backs on the needy of other shores, nor ignored the oppressed and downtrodden of decadent nations, nor acted mute when charity called in any part of the world.

The spirit of Christmas — the giving and getting of good tidings, the removal of faith and belief in fellow man, the counting of the blessings of health and happiness — is a common bond that joins our flag and anthem in merging the interests of the man from Oregon with the gentleman from Georgia; it ties the urbane landed gentry of California to the farmers of Iowa; it makes a family from New York desire to summer vacation in Minnesota and it brings out an interest in seeing the foundation of the Government in Washington from a docile

DESERT INN

Dec. 11 thru Dec. 30

Show: Billy Daniels, with Benny Payne; Paul Gilbert; Donn Arden Dancers; Carlton Hayes & His Orchestra.

The Christmas Holiday season is enhanced with great joy, what with "Ole Black Magic" BILLY DANIELS holding sway at the Desert Inn, the perfect gift to the FLV populace. Master of mood magic is he, weaving his lyrical spell with dramatic feeling. Anyone who cannot "feel" every song he sings would be most wise to have a blood pressure checkup. To see BILLY DANIELS perform for the first time makes a confirmed and permanent admirer of this master showman and his multi-talented partner, BENNY PAYNE. It is a show of humor, pathos, exciting rhythm and nostalgia, artistically presented. BENNY PAYNE provides the comic touch, which is the coupe de Show: Lisa Kirk; Jimmie Komack; The Renee Molnar Dancers; Dick Rice & His Orchestra.

Fresher than a newly cut Christmas tree, and the very gal you'd most want to catch under the mistletoe, LISA KIRK is the perfect Christmas entertainment present. The thrilling thrush, who is enjoying a popularity wave from coast to coast, creates extra added yuletide cheer with her platinum lyrics. Endowed with that unique ability to sense her audiences' desires and to slant her format accordingly, the lilting Lisa lands laudation accompanied by thunderous applause. . . . JIMMIE KOMACK is a newcomer in the highly competitive field of comicry, and his FLV debut stamps him as having "arrived", taking his place in the top drawer echelon. Original, fresh mater-

SILVER SLIPPER

Show: "French Follies of 1957" starring Hank Henry, Princess Yasmina, Barbara McNair and Artie James; Silver Slipper Stock Co.; George Redman & His Orchestra.

The Silver Slipper gang take you on a mythical trip to gay Paree and so realistically that you may just leave the show speaking French like a veteran. HANK HENRY, back from his flicker stint in the FRANK SINATRA pic, "The Joker is Wild," takes his "aberrated Americans" to European shores via TWA Constellation, and you can take it from there, brother! BARBARA McNAIR, recording star, weaves an enchanting spell reminiscent of the great Lena Horne. . . . PRINCESS YASMINA, as a Continental dancing star at "Club Pigalle," delights with her grace and sensuous gyrations, exciting the most blase in this atmosphere of old Apache lairs. SLIPPERETTES are gorgeous French dancers, backing ARTIE JAMES, the world's fastest roller skater, thrilling with his fantastic tricks. Dec. 13 thru Dec. 26

Show: Carl Ravazza; Nip Nelson; The Cordolines; Thunderbird Dancers with Barney Rawlings.

High musical festivities reign in the Navajo Room for your Christmas pleasure, and for one day thereafter, with the handsome baritone, CARL RAVAZZA in the stellar spot. Devotees of Calypso rhythms and Continental arias will have a super treat in the beautiful vocals of Ravazza. He also sings the standard American tunes, but the offbeat and Continental flavor draw the most applause. . . . NIP NELSON fills the comedy spot with his realistic impressions and clever repartee, "nipping" the heels of the great and the near-great with the playful abandon of a Cocker Spaniel. But it is all in good fun and the palm-pounders love him, even the VIPs he lampoons so perfectly. . . . THE CORDOLINES provide stirring string music, bordering on the celestial, together with accordion and classic choreography. THE FIRST CHRISTMAS:
THE ADVENT OF CHRIST

Behold, a virgin shall conceive,
And bear a Son,
And shall call His name Immanuel.
Isaiah vii. 14

NOW THE birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When his mother Mary had betrothed to Joseph, before they came together she was found with child of the Holy Ghost. And Joseph her husband, being a righteous man, and not willing to make her a public example, was minded to put her away privily. But when he thought on these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost. And she shall bring forth a Son; and thou shalt call His name Jesus; for it is He that shall save His people from their sins. Now all this is come to pass, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying,

Behold, the virgin shall be with child and shall bring forth a Son,

And they shall call His name Immanuel;

which is, being interpreted, "God with us." And Joseph arose from his sleep, and did as the angel of the Lord commanded him, and took unto him his wife; and knew her not till she had brought forth a Son; and he called His name Jesus. (Matthew 1, 18-25)

The evangelist, Matthew, tells us that "Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king; and Justin Martyr, who was born at Schechem and lived less than a century after the time of Christ, places the scene of the Nativity in a cave. Over this cave has risen the Church and Convent of the Nativity, and there is a stone slab with a star cut in it to mark the spot where the Saviour was born.

"Christmas" (pronounced Kris'mas) signifies "Christ's Mass," meaning the festival of the Nativity of Christ, and the word has been variously spelt at different periods.

Whether the 25th of December, which is now observed as Christmas Day, correctly fixes the period of the year when Christ was born is still doubtful. From Clement of Alexandria it appears, that when the first efforts were made to fix the season of the Advent, there were advocates for the 20th of May, and for the 20th and 21st of April. It is also found that some communities of Christians celebrated the festival on the 1st or 6th of January; others on the 29th of March, which is the time of the Jewish Passover; while others observe it on the 29th of September, or "Feast of Tabernacles." Julius I, Bishop of Rome (A.D. 337-352), contended that the 25th of December was the date of Christ's birth, a view to which the majority of the Eastern Church ultimately came round, while the Church of the West adopted from their brethren in the East the view that the baptism was on the 6th of January.

Hannen Foss of England in his "Christmas Lasts For Ever" writes of the meaning of Christmas as follows: "Is Christmas more than Christmas pudding? Just before Christmas 1945 — the last Christmas in the Services for millions of us — we were sitting 'round the table in the mess, having finished lunch. The adjutant, a somewhat harasesd man, exclaimed, "I don't know why all these men are trying to get leave for Christmas. They won't get half so much to eat at home as they will here."

"That made me think. Is Christmas just a time of feasting and drinking and conviviality, which you can do as well, or better, in the Army as at home? Or is it enormously more?

"And I realize that while the very best of material things are liberally poured out at Christmas time, the most precious things of Christmas are not material ones at all.

"Christmas is the richest event in

WHEN we of mature years think of Christmas, our minds wander back to those of many years ago when we were very young and looked forward to the coming of Santa Claus and the presents he would be sure to bring.

Gosh! We had written to him, hadn't we? And hadn't we been admonished, often, all year long, "If you are a very good child, Santa will be sure to bring whatever you ask for!" And you can bet on it that on Christmas Eve, particularly, we were ooooh such good children. Our halos were twice the size of the green, berry laden wreath adorning the front door. And sure enough, on Christmas morning we would open one eye (the other eye had been open all night of course, trying to catch a glimpse of old Santa coming down the chimney) and then rush downstairs to the livingroom where we would find all the things we had asked for in our letters to Santa Claus, placed artfully beneath that magic tree.

If we could only retain that faith and that belief throughout our later years — how much happier our lives would be; how much more joy we would impart to those around us; because there is a Santa Claus, just as sure as there is a God. But to have the fruits of One, we must believe in the Other.

Let us try to recapture the spirit of the years gone by, when we wrote a letter to Santa Claus. I cannot buy presents for all my friends and acquaintances, but I can ask Santa for the intangible wishes of good health and well being for them — with a little good natured joshing thrown in of course. So, here I go!

Dear Santa:

During the coming year please bring to all persons everywhere, and to my friends and acquaintances particularly, good health, happiness, and the good will of all their fellow men; and a few personal wishes, too, such as for BILL WILLIS of UNITED MORTGAGE CO., that continued success "moves" with you to the new building on South Fifth Street . . . for the "Pace" setters of realtors, IRENE, "lots" of people with "lots" of money who require "lots" and homes . . . for DANNY SIMMONS, plenty of women with "small" feet to fill those beautiful JOHN MARINO shoes at his FRENCH BOOTIER . . . for BEN STACK, that no one slips the "coin connoisseur" a "wooden" nickel . . . for STAN OAKES and PHIL FRYE of COMMUNITY CHEVROLET, a pair of "Solid Gold Cadillacs" . . . for "Uncle" JACK GARN and manager BOB WEST, that Damico never loses that certain "feeling" for expert tailoring . . . for FRANK FERGUSON of POTT'S STORE FOR MEN, an extra large paint brush for his next vacation . . . for BILL KOZLOFF and RAY COHEN, that their success is "insured" . . . for JOSEPH and JO ANNE, of the beauty salon by the same name, many balding runways to provide bases and landing strips for those cute (h)air toupees . . . for BOB CAMBELL, advertising man, happy "clients" . . . for JEAN PAUL KING, that NBC continues to "monitor" Las Vegas . . . to BOB PRICE, CIRQUE ROOM bartender, that the nasty ole wind doesn't spoil his "pars" at those crucial ($) holes . . . that the boys of Market Town's ROTIS-O-MAT, HARRY and SAM DVORAK, may never miss a "cue" — barbeque, that is . . . to MICHAEL CORDAY of those fabulous beauty salons and the distinguished beard, that no one "gifts" him with an electric shaver . . . for BERT BERNHEIM and his lovely "missus," many happy tenants for BLAIR HOUSE and for MR. & MRS. LESTER BOEHMER of the LANZ shop, many happy tenants for their lovely womens' wear . . . to MEL GORDON of SNELLER-GORDON CO., a "drape" shape and much good "cheer" (I think he likes bourbon) . . . for JACK SLOTE of BAIN'S, I selves. But somewhere along the years it quietly folded its arms and lay down to die. Why I do not know, but one of my most pleasant memories is of the foot power scroll saw (with a turning lathe) which I secured by the simple expedient of sending in one new subscriber and fifteen dollars of the forty dollars I received for my crop of potatoes raised by me on the small plot of sandy ground which my father set aside for my use in the summer of 1874. I should explain that those potatoes were purely accidental. In the spring I had borrowed the horse and a plow, plowed furrows into which I dropped seed potatoes (surplus from last year's crop) and then covered them by the very simple expedient of plowing another furrow the other way.

As summer came on I made a heroic effort to hoe down the crop of weeds which grew like magic. I was helpless and decided to give up farming as a hopeless task. However along in September I happened to be passing my "farm" and I wiggled my bare toes into the warm sand and felt something strange. My whole farm was full of potatoes. Again I borrowed the horse and plow and plowed up the finest crop of early rose potatoes and managed to get them into our cellar before frost took them. Potatoes were scarce that year and I managed to sell my crop for forty dollars, and that is how I got my scroll saw with which I made wall brackets and pretty trinkets, some of which I sold and some of which I gave as Christmas presents.

Perhaps that is too much to say about the Youth's Companion. I must mention again The Chatterbox. It was a bound book and I can never forget that the back of the cover was devoted to an advertisement in large letters:

EPP'S COCOA
GRATEFUL — COMFORTING

I suppose that advertisement was about the first expensive advertising campaign for Cocoa — in truth most of us did not know what cocoa was.

In those Christmas seasons of my childhood we young folks always hung up our stockings — both of them. We just could not afford disbelief in this very important matter. And the stockings were always mysteriously stuffed with good things — hard candies, nuts, a bunch of raisins and always as a special delight, an orange. I dreamed of the time when I could go to that far-off California, where they were just beginning to grow oranges, and lie on my back on the grass and look up at the golden fruit just ready to drop. However, it was not oranges that finally lured me to California. My mother had a large picture of Yosemite Valley hanging on the parlor wall. It was beautiful and I determined I would go to California so that I might see that wonderful valley. I have been near it on all sides while going up and down and across the state, but it has never been convenient for my companion to stop at Yosemite and I have yet to see that chief beauty of California, although I first arrived in the "Golden State" July 24, 1887 — almost seventy years ago.

Now I fear this story is getting a bit "mushy," so I will try to switch from the sentimental to the historical and tell about the first Christmas in Las Vegas of which we have an authentic record.

It was May 10, 1855 that Brigham Young started a group of thirty devout Mormons, from Great Salt Lake, to found a Mormon Mission at a far away place called by the Spanish explorers, "Las Vegas," because there were great and wonderful springs of water there and miles of fertile, green meadows. "Las Vegas" means fertile plains or meadows.

The Mormon Mission reached Las Vegas June 14, 1855, after a toilsome journey of more than a month, during which some of them narrowly escaped death by thirst and starvation. They immediately built a "Bowery" and held services of Thanksgiving. They started work on a fort and planted what seeds they had brought with them, and reaped scanty crops before autumn. However, the Indians, whom they sought to civilize and convert to Mormonism, proved tough customers, and persisted in stealing everything they could find in the shape of food. Try as they might, the starving Indians could not be broken of their habits of petty thievery. I am not so sure they deserve censure because for centuries "survival of the fittest" was their religion.

Miracle Food:

OVERWEIGHT LAS VEGANS LOSE WEIGHT

Several hundred Las Vegas people have already taken advantage of a scientifically proven miracle food that only became available here this year.

It is called WEY-RITE, a food in powder form that leading medical authorities hail as a "positive answer to safe sane weight control."

One typical Wey-Rite user is Lois C. Stoval of North Las Vegas and an employee of the local telephone company. In just 38 weeks she has taken off 88 pounds, 15 inches off the hips, 7 inches off the waist and six inches off the bust. She has gone from a size 46 dress to a size 20.

Major hospitals and Veterans hospitals use WEY-RITE for patients who are over weight or are unable to receive proper nourishment in solid form.

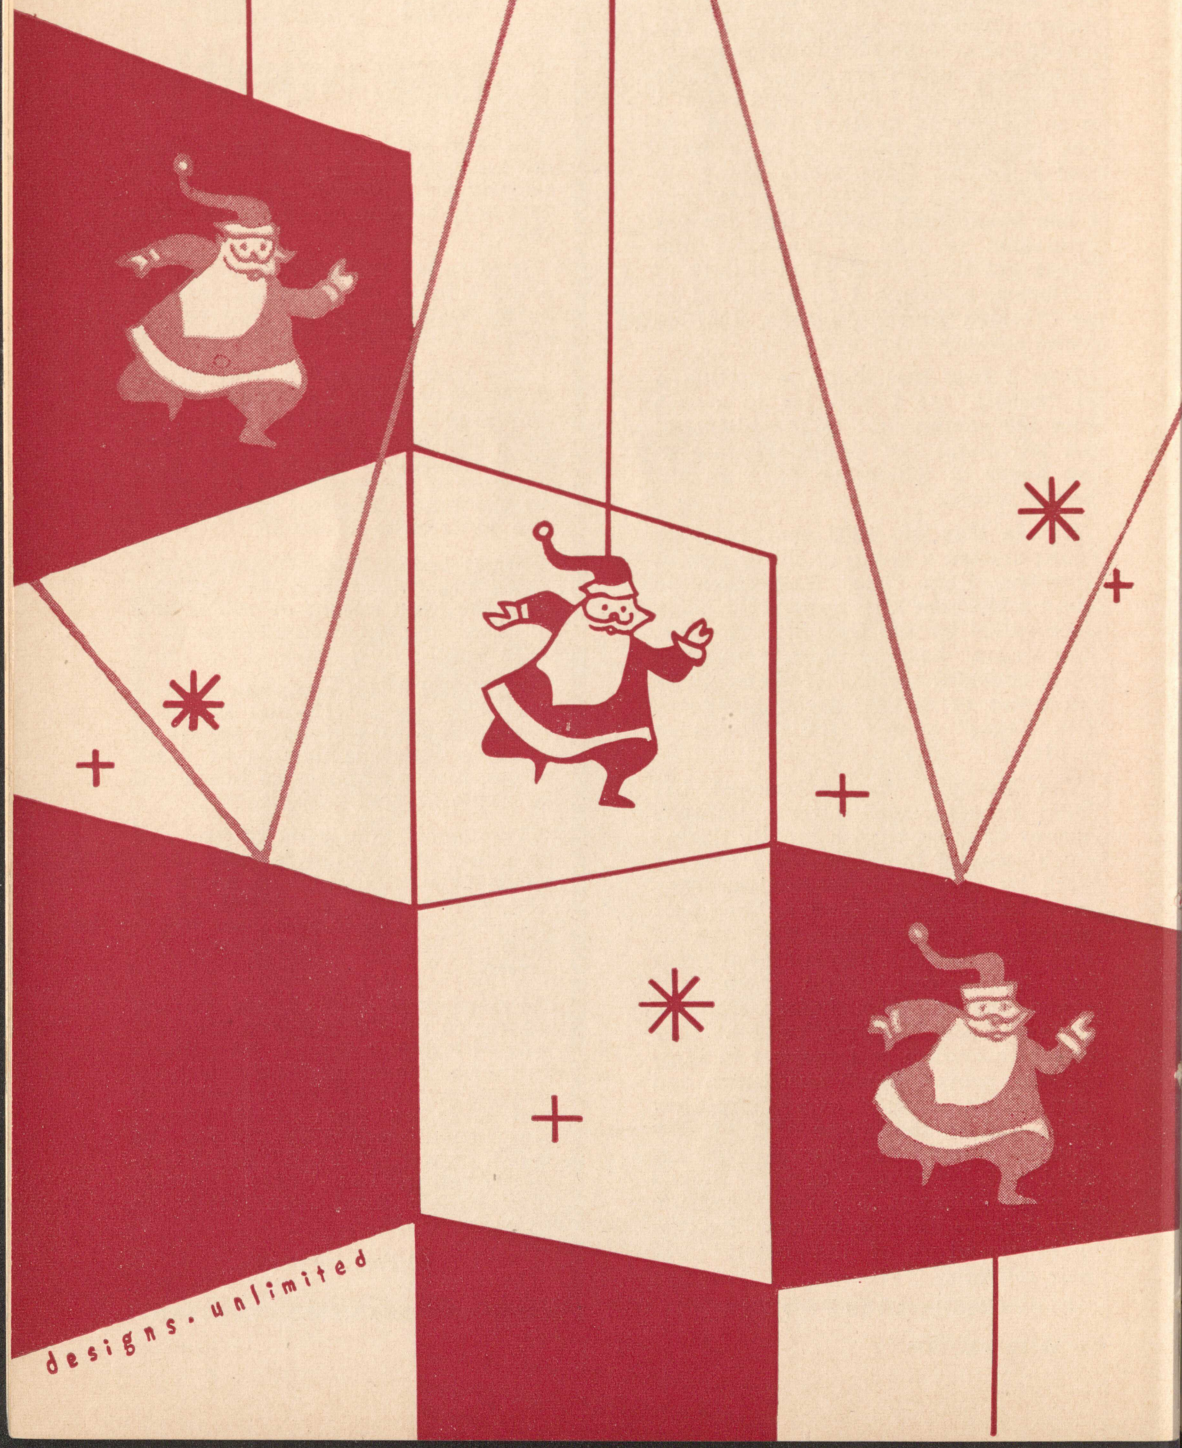

WEY-RITE is a complete meal in itself; one ounce is equal in nutritional value to a six-inch square of steak, a generous portion of vegetables, a slice of buttered bread and an apple or similar fruit.

This semi-liquid miracle food can be either substituted for any three meals or used to replace all three. The result is a reduction of 10 pounds or more in just two weeks time — you look better and feel better.

Persons here in Las Vegas who are interested in a guaranteed, pleasant way of losing dangerous fat without further endangering their health by using drugs, dieting, over-exercising and suffering from acute hunger pangs should call WEY-RITE at DU 4-7037 or write WEY-RITE, 517 Carson Avenue, Las Vegas, Nevada. Mail Orders filled immediately all over the world.

Our settlers at Las Vegas made a brave attempt to preserve their own lives and sanity by engaging in various pastimes in the few hours of every day when not engaged in hard work. They had, under direction of their great leader, Brigham Young, kept a daily record of their doings. On the first Christmas Day ever observed in Las Vegas, so far as we have any written record, William Bringhurst wrote:

"Thursday, December 25, 1855, Christmas.

"This was the coldest morning that the brethern had experienced at Las Vegas. The ground was frozen hard enough to bear up a horse and rider in some places. During the night the Indians stole a quantity of squashes, corn, etc. etc., out of Brothers Mitchell and Carther's house. They entered the fort at the unfinished portion, took the loose adobes out of the window and carried the squashes off unperceived by the guard. This being considered a licensed holiday, the brethren mustered for a wolf hunt on horseback. About a dozen went out and after chasing around for a few hours, returned without success. In the afternoon President Bringhurst and Smoot went out and located the Indian farm for the coming season on a little stream two miles north of the fort. (This was at the Kyle Ranch now known as the Bouldersdo Ranch.) Some of the brethern enjoyed themselves at a game of ball at the fort."

The records of the Mormon Mission at Las Vegas for December 25 in the years 1856 and 1857 fail to show that there were no special Christmas commemorations on those dates, and the Mormon Church discontinued the Las Vegas Mission in 1858.

In this modern Las Vegas (beginning in 1905) there has never been a failure to have a community Christmas celebration, the first of which came in 1905, when the dreariness of the civic situation almost forced us to do something.

Fortunately the Las Vegas Aerie 1213, Fraternal Order of Eagles, had been formed under the leadership of our good friend, Con Ahearn, of the great mining camp of Virginia City, who came to Las Vegas and organized the Aerie September 15, 1905, and that gave us the impetus which restored our courage and gave us the necessary civic organization to provide a community Christmas. Our school teacher, Miss Alma Tuttle, and the women of the Methodist Church, prepared and put on the long program. When the project was first mentioned there was considerable uncertainty about providing a suitable Christmas tree, but the Eagles solved that problem by borrowing a hour horse team and wagon and a group spent several days driving into the deep snow of the mountains, butting a fine fir tree and bringing it to Las Vegas. The big garage built by the then defunct Nevada Rapid Transit Company, now located on the northeast corner of Main and Stewart streets, was secured as an auditorium. All the large amount of junk housed in the old garage was removed. Pine boards, slivers intact, were used to build a stage and benches for the audience. Of course the tree proved too tall, but that was soon remedied by cutting off a couple of feet.

Then the Eagles did fine work taking up contributions of money and materials for filling several hundred small bags with popcorn and candy

From the Las Vegas Age of December 30, 1905.

"The big garage building on North Main Street was the scene of Las Vegas' first Christmas entertainment and it was crowded Monday night with people, big and little, all intent on making the event a merry one — and it is safe to say all were amply rewarded — the little folks with the good things provided for their delight and the older ones with the joy of seeing the children happy.

"The Christmas tree, donated by the local lodge of Eagles, shone resplendent, laden with candy, nuts and fruit for the boys and girls. Kind hands had erected a stage for the tree and for the use of the performers who were to carry out the program which had been arranged under the direction of the teacher, Miss Alma Tuttle."

The program followed and of those taking part there were several who will still be remembered in Las Vegas. Among them were Mrs. Dillon, Julia Westlake, Edith Aplin, Olive Cavalleri, Olive Lake, Wanda Ball, Leone Ronnow, Nellie McWilliams, Geneva Laravey, Victor and Teresa Matteuci, and John Kramer.

Each of the several years following we held a modest celebration of Christmas in the schools, climaxing on December 25, 1911 with exercises in the new school building on Bridger, between Fourth and Fifth streets. This was, in a way, a dedication of the new building of which we were very proud, but which is now being condemned as unfit for school rooms. That was quite a pretentious event, we thought.

The Mesquite Club, organized in 1911, promoted what was to us a new idea in Christmas services. It was the out of doors Community Christmas tree around which congregations of all faiths gathered together and celebrated.

The corner of Fremont and First streets was chosen as the site, that being the most prominent business corner in Las Vegas. A great fir tree was brought from the mountains. Generally it lifted its lofty head well above the tops of surrounding buildings (there were then none above one story) and by that time the Consolidated Power and Telephone Company was providing enough "juice" to enable us to light it profusely.

The tree was always erected in the center of the street intersection and was surrounded by a platform about four feet high on which the exercises were held.

All the different Churches and Fraternal organizations vied in the pleasant duty of providing goodies for the children. The feature of providing generous baskets of food to be given secretly to those families which might be in want, was then inaugurated. The stray Elks took up the duty of arranging and distributing those baskets of food and the Elks Lodge still keeps that work up, partly financing the enterprise through their "Charity Ball," which is still held each year early in December.

Oh yes! There were many more Christmas celebrations worthy of note, which time and space do not permit us to mention, but I wish all our readers would understand that Las Vegas, even in its early days of hardship and want, was mindful of those who were poor and of our children. Perhaps it is not out of place to mention that the growth of Nevada into a gambling state was due to our desire to eliminate gangsters and crooked games. Every state and every city has its gamblers, but in this nation there is no state except Nevade which has so completely surrounded its people with safeguards against crooks and gangsters. That is the reason that thousands of tourists come here each month. They are sure they will get a fair deal if they play any gambling games in Nevada.

to the minutest detail — even the exact scents permeating the scene; the picture of Blue Boy hanging, awry, on the wall; the deep red of the pomegranites on the tree just outside the bedroom window; the drip, drip of the leaky faucet just beneath the weeping willow tree; the smell of gingerbread in the kitchen; the violet perfume my half-sister, Cayloma, had patted on her handkerchief just before she had left the house to go Christmas shopping; the green coat suit and pink chiffon blouse my mother wore when she left the house to go with Cayloma; the thought in my mind at that moment how Cayloma could possibly be my sister and have gray hair and look so old, and I was such a little child; the words my sister, just four years older than I, shouted at her recalcitrant brothers — "Stop dragging the tree in the dirt, you fools! You'll ruin the branches!"; the tea towel I was embroidering awkwardly with red "x" stitches and for which I had had the daylights beaten out of me for buying with the pennies I had pilfered from the chickenfeed money my mother had given me to buy weekly at the grocery store; the old dining table, beneath which wads of gum, made of sweetgum and stretchberries during the summer, had been stored for winter chewing; and the stench of the cancer that was eating my father's life away that day, syndroming all around and touching me not, I loved him.

The house was quiet and I sat by the bed, as I had been told to do, while the grownups were out attending to Christmas planning. Down through the years I have heard different stories of that day of days from each and every one of my siblings. If they were all true, it must have happened in each of their imaginations, for if everything happened that day, as each of them claimed, time itself would have labeled it all wrong; and the poignant fact that what actually happened was the event that directed my whole existence thereafter.

I would not dwell on this particular Christmas for an editorial, except that in writing about it perhaps I can better project the theme of the true meaning of Christmas. Was not Jesus born 1956 years ago that we might live and that we might live more abundantly? And is not abundance in material wealth as nothing, if we are poverty stricken in spirit?

It was Christmas Eve actually when all this happened. All that week before Christmas my aged father had seemed anxious to have me, his youngest child (he was sixty years old when I was born), near him. My mother had spanked my backside so many times that week I could hardly sit down. Papa was upset about it. I well remember his words that day I got the worst licking of all.

"Miss Mary," he said, "if there's one thing I've learned in my long life of so many mistakes, it's that the brains are at the top of the spine, not at the base of it."

"It's too bad you didn't learn that years ago with 'my boys'," Mother replied, bitterly, as she left his bedside and took off for downtown to do the shopping.

The bitterness against my father was slow to drain from Mother's fountainhead of memories. Their lives had not been all sugar and spice — as it seldom is when an old man marries a young girl, made more complicated when that elderly man is the father of children about the same age as his child bride. Mother had well founded bitterness and not even Papa's death could soften them immediately in those moments of sorrow and regrets. Her courage, character, and just plain "guts," are a phenomena I shall never fathom, nor ever be able to match. But a young child does not understand these things and its impressions are cemented early, with only Time the common denominator with which to assimilate the meaning and the proper application of those impressions. Thus was I wide-eyed and a bit mixed up with the grownup conversation during that eventful Christmas week so long ago.

"Why does Mama always say 'my boys' and never 'my girls,' Papa? I asked.

"Perhaps because she knows her girls are still babies and her boys are men and she will need them," he replied, sadly. "Cottontop," he continued, looking into space with filmed eyes, "I won't be here to watch you grow up. I wish I could be. I know you're going to be a fine woman, and it is too bad I can't be around to help you grow up. Grownups make mistakes with the first ones born to them, then along comes the last one, the one you feel you can really do something with, and then it's too late. You're all old and sick and you have to go away."

"Where are you going, Papa?"

The beginning of the death ralls set in about then and he began to hiccough, but his very blue eyes twinkled and he coughed up a reply: "Your Mother's minister probably has the answer to that one."

Strangely, at that very moment there was a knock on the front door and it was "Hummingbird" Davis. Papa called the good Rev. Davis, "Hummingbird," because of his extremely long, thin, inquisitive nose, a nose entirely incongruous with his small face. Papa used to tease "Miss Mary" (I might explain here that due to the difference in my parents' ages, Papa insisted on his grown children by his first wife calling her "Miss Mary," for the sake of propriety and dignity; a name that stuck for the remainder of her life) about her "Hummingbird" minister, an act that she deemed sacrilegious and one that would definitely condemn Pop to Hell.

"How's your Father," asked Rev. Davis, patting my head benignly. I recoiled. If Papa didn't like him, then neither did I.

"He has the hiccoughs. I told him to take a drink of water and drink it down in one breath, counting up to nine, like I do, but he said I had never had the hiccoughs like he has 'em, Rev. Davis. He tried to swallow it, but he couldn't."

The minister's bird-like face screwed up in alarm and he hurried into the sick room.

Gravely, in his best clerical voice, Rev. Davis greeted Papa. The look exchanged between them, as I remember it in retrospect, plainly said, "This is it. Death is here in this room." Rev. Davis was quick to make his spiritual approach to save Papa's soul while there was still time. Because it was Christmas Eve, no doubt, Rev. Davis prefaced his talk with the Christmas story; why Christ was really born, including in the story the many Biblical teachings which my father knew quite well, if not even better, as the minister, since he was the son of a Baptist minister — a hardshell one at that.

I sat on the footstool beside Papa's bed, listening to every word. I well remember how Pop's eyes twinkled, 'though he kept right on hiccoughing laboriously. Now and then he would look at me sitting there so earnestly attentive, then twinkle harder than ever at me. The minister droned on about Heaven and Hell and the importance of one's soul, and wham! Suddenly I realized why Papa wasn't arguing and why he was listening in an unusually well behaved manner, and twinkling brighter than the Christmas tree in the livingroom. Papa was going to let the minister speak his entire piece, then right there on his deathbed he was going to prove to me, his youngest child, that even in the face of death he could stand on what he believed, and what he believed he had already told me during that week.

Papa hadn't been completely bedridden just a week before Christmas Eve. He walked me through the fig orchards and the vegetable gardens, thence around the big chicken yard on the south side of the property, and through to the deep wood adjoining, holding my hand and leaning on me a bit as he limped along. I remember how silent we both were, and how I was thinking and trying to get up nerve to ask him the question that had been bothering me so much.

I had a playmate in those days named Louise House, a spoiled and nasty little girl, so ruined by over-attentive adopted parents. When I would refuse to give Louise my best doll or the biggest piece of cake, she delighted in hurling back at me, "Your old Papa is going to Hell, he is. He's an 'athetist' and all 'athetists' go to Hell. My Mother says so. My Mother says he's sick and he's gonna die real soon and go to Hell and burn in a firey furnace."

I couldn't sleep nights, worrying about this slanderous statement. I had bad dreams and I was afraid to tell my Mother about it for fear she'd whip me for even repeating the word, Hell. I also sensed that all was not well between my parents and that not all my brothers and sisters loved Papa, either. So, to none of them would I speak to about it. They represented grownups. They were my brothers and sisters to be sure, nevertheless tall persons with great authority and therefore ones to fear.

I was walking along with Papa in the woods that day and he began to talk funny for a Papa, I thought. I dared not interrupt, and as it happens it was well that I didn't, because his conversation led up to an opening for me to ask him about his "athetist" business; naturally, and without seeming to be impudent. I had been concentrating so hard on how to ask him about it I did not hear all that he was trying to say to me — like life going to be a hard road ahead for me, and that my brothers left home when I was born, and that I was going to have to fight every inch of the way of my life, but to forget that he had told me to fight with my fists, that he was all wrong about that, that to read books and get an education and fight with my brains instead, and then he made the opening for my question, when he said: "And don't tell any more stories to your Mother. That whopper you told the other day to the groceryman was a sin against your parents and yourself and against God."

"God! You don't believe in God!" I screeched. "You're an 'athetist' — Louise said so."

"Cottontop, do you know what that words means?"

"I do. It's the name they call a person when he's going to Hell."

Papa didn't say anything, but he stopped dead in his tracks as though he was going to faint, and sat down on the stump of a tree just newly cut, getting pine resin on his trousers.

Finally he said: "The word doesn't mean that at all. 'Atheist' is the word, not 'athetist.' Remember that. Words are very important and remember that, too. An atheist is someone who believes in nothing — not in God, not in himself, not in anything. And you just remember when you grow up, Cottontop, that a man who doesn't believe in God is a fool. Your old Daddy isn't a fool, baby. I believe in God. That pine tree there is God at work; that bird up there on the limb of it, that's God at work. The sky, the sun, and all the pretty things you see around you, that's God at work Understand?"

I thought I did. Anyway, it sounded much better than Mama's kind of God and the things they taught us at the church. The things they called a sin were the things I liked, and the things I didn't like seemed to be the way to live. So right then and there on the spot I knew exactly how I was going to believe, no matter how I had to behave outwardly for material approval in the years to come. Papa had planted the seed well.

Thus it was that on his deathbed by father was determined to keep that merry twinkle and prove something to me, and as young as I was, I sensed what he was about to do, though I didn't know exactly how.

Reverend Davis droned on and on and finally came to the point he should have made an hour before: "Brother, have you made peace with your God?"

Papa looked at me long and hard, then with great effort to control his hiccoughs, replied, gently, but firmly, "Hummingbird, I've never had a fuss with Him," and closed his eyes.

It was a strange and beautiful moment. As long as I live I shall not forget it. I was still filled with the wonder of it when Mama and the rest of the family came bustling in and they gathered around Papa's bed. I didn't even wonder why they placed nickels on his eyes to keep them down tight 'til the undertaker came. They shooed me out of the room and I went into the living room and sat down on the old brown leather couch and pondered about it. The day after Christmas, in that same livingroom, the Christmas tree in one corner and his casket in the other, pine tree pungency and sickly tube roses mingling together strangely, I wanted to cry; but my Mama sat stonily in her chair and did not cry, and if Mama didn't cry, then I couldn't cry. Nobody cried except Cayloma and Jess. They were my grownup sister and brother — they had "rights"; but I was the youngest and had none; so I couldn't cry. I couldn't smile, either, 'though I wanted to. I wanted to yell out to everybody that Papa wasn't dead and that he had just gone away and that he definitely hadn't gone to Hell. I knocked Louise House down after the funeral and bloodied her nose. Then, I cried. Cried because I had done exactly what Papa had said I shouldn't do — use my fists. But then she had no right to say Papa had gone to Hell just like she had said he was gonna do. I wasn't mad because Mama didn't cry. Mama never cried about anything because she thought it was cowardly. She just threw her head back proudly and set her shoulders and kept right on working. But she didn't give me a licking that day for fighting Louise, when I told her why I did it. Her brown eyes softened warmly and she said, "You loved your old Papa, didn't you, Verena?"

"Yessum, I did," I replied. "I loved Papa."

More years than I care to remember have rolled by since that Christmas, the one I shall never forget; the one when I was first introduced to Death — and Life. For they are one, Death and Life. And all the things that Papa said to me that Christmas week have come true. I have had a difficult life, fighting every inch of the way, standing up for what I believe, standing up for it in the articles I write, in my personal and business life, and in all of the things with which I am confronted, the good and the bad alike. It is what you believe in your heart that is important. Outward appearances be hanged.

During the years that followed Papa's death on that Christmas Eve, countless times I've heard my siblings, my aunts and my uncles (both on the maternal and paternal side) talk about Papa; how sad it was that he died such a mean man, a man who had not accepted Jesus as his Savior. And how many times have I wanted to cry out in his defense, but fear sealed my mouth; fear that they would brand me a liar and insist that no little kid would possibly remember such things as I could tell them about Papa and how he really believed before he died. His was the true belief and I know it works because I have worked it and I care nothing of the opinions of my relatives any more. Nor do I fear their disagreement, nor do I fear anything but fear. The hand of authority, gripping a long switch, no longer binds me; nor does their respect nor their feet of clay. A writer must write and my well spring of experience is full and ripe.

Each Christmas I remember. I shall remember that Christmas until I draw my last breath; and until I draw that last breath I shall remember that God is at work — in everything and everyone. In the thief, in the slanderer, in the liar; in the priest and the nun; in the politician and in the dictator; in the songbird and in the child; in the dog and in the snake; in the sun and the stars; and in everything below, above and in the earth. That is why Jesus was born one thousand nine hundred and fifty six years ago today, and why we celebrate His natal date with joy.

On His birthday, guns stop shooting; bombs stop falling; warriors lay down their weapons; family feuds take a holiday; enemies in all encampments pause and think at least a little of this day. Why?

Because God is at work. And although we may fight and fuss with each other on many things, we all know, deep within ourselves, on each Christmas Day, that with our God we have never really had a fuss.

MERRY CHRISTMAS and MAY GOD BLESS EACH OF YOU IN THE COMING YEAR. . . .

old couple from Indiana, who never before left their state. In a broader sense, Christmas strips you of the awareness that she has a twang in her speech, or that he has more money than you have or that the color of their skin is different than your own. Those of us who can carry the message and ideal of Christmas with us for an extra day have made progress. If we double and triple that progress so that the thoughts and sacrifice behind the festival of the church are with us daily, we are on the way to making our time on this planet count for something.

Before the Fifth Century there was no consensus among the world's population as to when Christmas was to be celebrated. It confused hundreds of thousands of people. Today, hundreds of millions honor the affixed date. In our civilized surroundings, the month and the day are merely conveniences. The commemoration is an occasion that starts with the first sign of a window display and lasts until the very final tree is taken out of a house in January. The elasticity of the holiday may, someday — even in our time — stretch to the point where soft words will replace sharp swords, bombs will be relics, and cannon will be stilled.

For the present, serious overtones taken down, have yourself a Merry Christmas, reader. The best way to insure that — is to see to it that somebody else's is little merrier.

End of tinsel hanging.

sieze the power which will make Ireland the most important, richest, and most flourishing new nation of our world of 1957!

I predict that Scotland will also revolt against oppressive taxation, and will be able to ease their present strained economy. Scotland will come into new prosperity, through greater exports, and as a number one tourist attraction!

I predict that the nation of France will face internal strife, and a coalition headed by General Charles de Gaulle, the World War II head, will unite the many factions into a strong, dominant political party.

I predict that Portugal will become the international listening post for propaganda, for Portugal will remain neutral in the bitter battle for survival.

The nation of Spain will increase in importance and will return to a monarchy, when Franco steps aside for the Prince of the Bourbon Line!

The most amazing invention of the year will come from Switzerland! A giant electric brain, which can be placed over an individual, and their span of life will be clearly registered, and the very day they will die will be told, unless they repair a faulty organ, which is designated! This one invention will be the greatest boon to mankind since the electric light!

I predict that Denmark will make medical history, and many of her doctors will be sought by the leaders of other countries for their own people!

I predict that Germany will reunite and the error of World War II will be corrected, in making Germany a buffer state against Communism!

I predict that Switzerland will be the financial capitol of Europe and will remain secure when other currencies fall!

I predict that Italy will again be a world power, and the eclipse she suffered in 1560 will be righted when the pendulum of the Clock of Time swings her way again! The Papacy will grow more powerful and will be the deciding factor which will keep war from sweeping the earth in 1957! I predict that the spiritual power gen-

I predict that Greece will reach out from the rubble of yesteryear, and re-establish glory by taking Cyprus and coming to terms with Turkey, forming a Balkan alliance, to strengthen the peace of the world!

I predict that Norway, Sweden, and Finland will be the winter sports capitol of the world, and will stage a homecoming, the greatest ever held! The propaganda of clean sports will do much to establish goodwill and fair-play throughout the world.

I predict that the Iron Curtain countries of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Albania and Bulgaria, will bitterly renounce the policies of the Kremlin, and will seek help to re-establish themselves as Democratic states once more!

I predict that Tito of Yugoslavia will find that he has made a very bad bargain with Russia, and he will seek to break away, with tragic results!

I predict that Russia will crumble from within, for no nation is stronger than its leaders! I predict that the present leaders of Russia will battle among themselves, and will remove themselves from power, one by one! Blood will flow in the streets of Moscow like water after a spring rain! Great famines will sweep Russia and millions will revolt against Red tryanny! If a citizen misses three meals, he is a potential revolutionist! Mark my words, it will be no different in Russia!

I predict that China will quietly revolt against the anti-religious restrictions of Russia, and again will be a nation without a set policy.

I predict Indo-China will fall under the influence of Russia, but will slowly revolt and seek new independence!

I predict Thailand will become the number one power of the East, usurping the positions of Burma and India, Tibet and Afghanistan, in prestige, wealth and importance! Thailand will be the diplomatic crossroads of the East!

I predict that India will lose importance and this one-time pearl in the British Crown will fall to disfavor and misfortune!

I predict that Sumatra and Borneo will feel the wrath of Mother Nature in a series of devastating tidal waves, eruptions and cataclysmic storms!

I predict the nation of Australia will come into a new power and importance. This soon-to-be-independent continent will show the rest of the world how great it can become in a few short years! Australia will rival North America for importance of export and import of merchandise for world sale!

I predict troubled times ahead for Egypt, Saudia Arabia, Iraq and Iran. These nations of ancient civilization will again face each other across the burning sands, the diplomatic conference table, and the money marts of the world.

I predict that the new nation of Israel will astound the world when oil becomes the number one economic factor! I predict that Israel will be wooed by many suitors, but will remain aloof and independent, creating a new balance of power in world trade!

I predict open border warfare, but this will die down to minor skirmishes, and in the end differences will be forgotten and the great religions of the world will march solidly together for lasting peace!

I predict that the continent of South America will be torn with one violent revolution after another! The economy of the entire continent will be changed, and where once tin, coffee, and beef were the ruling kings, their thrones will be usurped by newly discovered industries of minerals, drugs and fabrics! The continent of South America will definitely be on the rise and will insure a world prosperity through trade pacts with Latin countries throughout the world!

I predict a more careful watch will be kept over the politics of Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Guatemala, and Honduras, for they will be tied to the Economy Bloc of Central America and backed by the United States!

I predict a series of short revolutions for Mexico, which will affect the stock markets throughout the world, but will stabilize the peso in our American markets!

I predict that the Bahamas, Haiti, Jamaica, and Puerto Rico of the West Indies, together with the Hawaiian Islands and other small islands of the East Indies, will become vacation paradises!

I predict that Japan will successfully invade every market of the world with their products, which are no longer cheap copies, but exact duplicates! I predict that the Japanese nation will come into new importance and it will be their beginning of a golden age.

I predict that the great educational system of Canada will undergo a complete reorganization, so that all may attend and receive free schooling, even through college! I predict that the French influence will dominate the rest of Canada and will be reflected more and more as 1957 progresses!

My friend, our spinning globe may be in for a series of political, economic, and civic crises, but it will be nothing compared to the crises we will face at the hands of Mother Nature!

All weather travels by cycle, and 1957 will be the 19th year of the grand weather cycle, which promises to be the most violent to date! Our weather cycles come in a series of nine, and now we have reached the grand spiral, which will be the jackpot that Mother Nature has prepared! Let us again look at our spinning world from a great distance! Not only will our world face danger from Outer Space, but also from the elements of Inner Earth! Here are the things that the weather man has in store for our world, through the careful delineation of the weather cycle, and the advance reports of the geologic international survey!

I fearlessly predict that 1957 will be the most furious on record! Mother Nature will vent her wrath upon the world, making all the oceans churn with fury, causing great loss of life! I predict that great tidal waves will wash the shores of all nations and the lunar disturbances will increase, as one tide will pull against another as never before! Shipping lanes will be changed, and calm coves will no longer be safe, due to treacherous riptides! Water spouts will become very common! Winds will sweep the earth, for our earth will come into new air current contacts in the inverted bowl we call the sky. The earth will slightly list, causing a different arrangement of coastal borders, and new drainage of inland lakes, rivers and streams. Tornados, hurricanes, and typhoons will be common front-page daily headlines!

I predict that our weather will change more and more, causing equal disturbances under the surface of the earth. There will be violent earthquakes in China, Japan, India, Greece and South America! Ancient, sleeping volcanos will suddenly erupt with flowing fire, destroying native property and life! The ocean currents will suddenly change, bringing new species of fish, and creating new markets the world over! In many areas of the world rainfall will increase, resulting in floods and dreaded typhoid! In other areas no rain will fall and teeming vicinities will be turned into vast dust bowls! The icy fingers of winter will almost cause a death rattle in the throats of many nations, for the most violent winter in our recorded history lies ahead in 1957! The coming sun spots will influence radio and television reception, and record heat waves will touch Alaska, Greenland, Iceland, as never before!

My friend, in 1957 our scientists will come to the serious conclusion that many of us are actually slowly starving ourselves through improper eating. They will find that a great number of us are digging our graves with our teeth, due to careless eating habits.

So many of you readers of the Fabulous Las Vegas magazine write me from many different parts of the country, where my transcribed radio show, "The Criswell Family," is heard. START THIS COMING MONDAY MORNING!

MONDAY

Code Word — HOPE

Monday is named for the Moon Goddess — The Moon's Day — A day for Big, Bold, Brave, Daring Deeds. Hope is the basis of our faith. The Father and Mother of our desire. Hope is the lazy man's dream, while active Faith is the active person's reason for active success. Hope and Faith are the two cures for disease, disaster, pain, trouble and loneliness. Dame Hope never refused any wretched person who seeks Her. Hope well and have well; fear much and have little; aim high and gain more. You cannot buy Hope; you borrow Hope from brave people's deeds. Do the big, bold, brave, daring deeds. Don't dream them all day long. Hope and action equals daily success.

CHEERFULNESS

1. Do you seldom have the blues?
2. Do you keep from worrying about getting old?
3. Do you have a good time at picnics and parties?
5. Are your dreams usually pleasant?
6. Do you forget sickness or accidents quickly?
7. Do you usually forget your failures and mistakes?
8. Do you think life is pretty good after all?

9. Do you often whistle or sing?
10. Do you try to get others to laugh or smile?
11. Do you often think over the good times you have had?
12. When the going is tough, do you usually think it will come out all right?

Note: AVERAGE PERSON HAS 6 YES.

If you have 4 or less YES, you are on the melancholy side, and are likely to be crabby, disappointed, your aspirations are too high with other people, you expect too much. If you have many YES, you are cheerful, you are sought after, you can maintain good positions of trust where the public is concerned. You may tend to scatter your efforts and be generally unambitious.

LOVE: Go up to a perfect stranger on the street, or stop a perfect stranger and ask him the directions, and then converse with them. This will tend to cure you for shyness. If you are married, plan to go out socially with your husband tonight.

MONEY: Think over your expenditures of the past few days, put them down on paper, and then you will be able to get your full value of every penny spent.

HEALTH: Drink one quart of buttermilk today, in place of a regular meal.

TUESDAY

Code Word – CHARITY

Tuesday is named for the Norse God of War – Tyr. A day for a good deed to some worthy person. Charity is the one gesture the whole world understands. No customs nor languages are needed, for Charity dwells in the heart. Find some one who is in need, do not give of worldly goods, but help them to find themselves by a kind word and a kind deed. If they need work, help find them a job. If they need food, give them an opportunity to earn it. Give understanding, Faith and Courage to others . . . that is true Charity . . . that is bread upon the waters that will come back to you – a thousand-fold.

CONTRARINESS

1. Do you usually buy what salesmen offer?
2. Are you inclined to agree with people you are with?
3. Do you follow the new fashions?
4. Do you usually do what others want?
5. Do you read the books you see others reading?
6. Do you like working for someone else?
7. Were you obedient as a child?
8. Do you imitate the gestures and actions of others?
9. Do you loan things?
10. Do you send in coupons or box tops for radio programs?
11. Do you usually obey traffic and other signs?
12. Do you take most regulations for granted, without resentment?

Note: If you have a few YES, you indicate a contrary streak. Average is 6 YES. If you have few YES, you are willful and non-cooperative. You go against the tide. People do not expect to change you, they will just put up with you, until you kill them off through exasperation. If you have many YES, you are cooperative; an easy mark for high pressure salesmen; the reformer's delight; you are a spendthrift; you are likely to be taken advantage of by the opposite sex.

LOVE: Call some single person you know of the opposite sex on the telephone, and ask them some advice about your affairs. If you are married, make this day very pleasant for your mate by doing the things they want you to do.

MONEY: Make a complete list of the things you would buy if you were suddenly presented with a thousand dollars.

HEALTH: Do not use any sugar in your coffee or tea, eat no pastry nor candy.

WEDNESDAY

Code Word – PRUDENCE

Wednesday is named for the Norse God Woden. A day for planned personal action. Prudence (Consideration) is your key that will unlock the door to abundance, for it is the practical knowledge of things to be sought, and of things to be avoided. The Prudent person neither hopes nor fears anything from the uncertain events of the future, for we can control our future day by day, hour by hour, minute by minute, and second

HOME PROBLEMS

1. Does someone at home boss you too much?
2. Does someone at home object to your friends?
3. Is someone in your home easily irritated?
4. Is someone at home inclined to criticize you too much?
5. Is someone at home very nervous?
6. Does someone at home get on your nerves?
7. Does someone at home argue much of the time?
8. Does someone at home say things that make you feel sad?
9. Does someone at home find fault with your appearance?
10. Is someone at home hot-headed?
11. Is someone at home selfish and self-centered?
12. Does someone at home shift unpleasant work over to you?

Note: The average person has 3 YES. Perhaps this monster at home may be you!

LOVE: Ask a favor from someone of the opposite sex. If you are married, get your mate to recall your courtship, and relive your happier moments together.

MONEY: Go into the most expensive shops in your community, and price and try on the clothes that you would like to wear.

HEALTH: Eat no bread today but whole wheat, rye or pumpernickel, without butter.

THURSDAY

Code Word — JUSTICE

Thursday is named for the God of Thunder — Thor. The day for the payment of past debts! Justice (Fairness) is the standing policy of the whole humanity, for Justice and Honor are the key words to our character . . . and this brings about others trusting us . . . which we desire above all. Never bother to tamper with Justice, as Justice has a way of making things even to everyone. If it isn't Justice, it's dishonest. So let us clear our books today, and write off, dismiss all bad debts. If we are fair with ourselves, others will be fair with us.

SELF-ASSURANCE

1. Do you like to be around important people?
2. Can you make a mistake without being upset by it?
3. Can you think of things to say when meeting people?
4. Is it easy for you to say "No"?
5. Do you stick to your plans, regardless of difficulties?
6. Do you express your complaints promptly?
7. Do you remain calm when things go wrong?
8. Can you work without being upset when others find fault?
9. Would you like an important job, even though it might be lost soon?
10. Do you rely upon your own taste in picking clothes?
11. Do you decide things quickly?
12. Do you almost never regret your decisions?

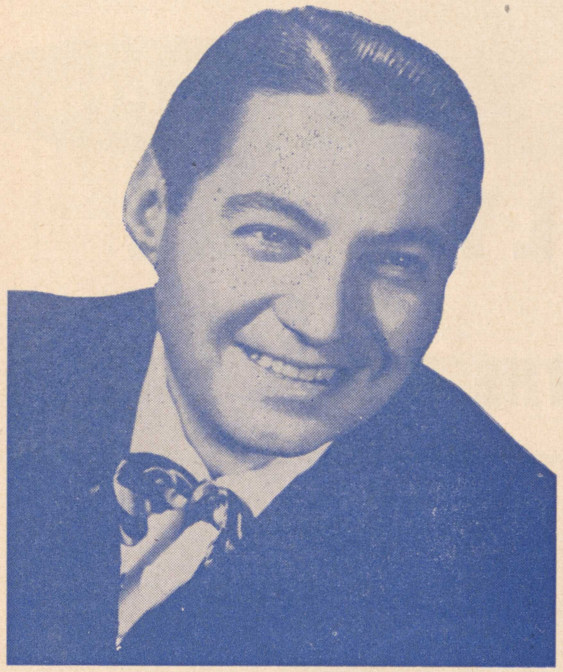

Note: Total the Yes. Those with many YES may be overbold and fail to profit through their mistakes. If you have a few YES, you are hesitant, and inclined to be wishy-washy. If you want a better job to turn up, keep the corners of your mouth that way.

LOVE: Make a list of eligible persons that you would like to become better acquainted with. If you are married, this will be the day to plan a social evening with friends in your home.

MONEY: Write a letter to your richest relation, and keep in close touch with them. If possible, pay them a family visit.

HEALTH: This is the day to make one meal of fruit and fruit alone.

FRIDAY

Code Word — FORTITUDE and COURAGE

Friday is named for Freya, the Goddess of Love. A day for the attraction of the opposite sex. Fortitude and Courage is the armor we wear in our daily battle. We are always more than equal to our daily problems, or they would not be placed on our pathway. If we can bear defeat with a happy heart, that is supreme courage. Courage is the successful man's belief in himself and his mission. Let us have the courage of our convictions and draw to us the things we desire today, not tomorrow, not next week, or next year, but today. Remember, Dame Fortune favors the courageous.

INDEPENDENCE

1. Are you discouraged when others disagree with you?
2. Can you decide quickly what to do in an emergency?
3. Do you usually know what to do next?
4. Is it hard to convince you that your ideas are not good?
5. Do you keep your personal troubles to yourself?
6. Is it hard to talk you into something with which you disagree?
7. Do you tackle unpleasant jobs first?
8. Do you usually count your change to make sure it is correct?
9. Do you keep busy in your spare time?
10. Do you seldom seek advice from others?
11. Do you plan your work ahead?
12. Do you dislike rules and regulations?

Note: Average person has 7 YES. With many YES, you are independent. With few YES, you are dependent. If many YES, you should have your own business, as you are "bossy."

LOVE: This is the day to bring any love affair to a triumphant climax. If you are married, this is the day to plan new ventures.

MONEY: Budget your money closely today, and buy yourself that little luxury that you have wanted for some time.

HEALTH: This is the day in which you must spend the entire afternoon in bed, but if this is impossible, retire very early.

SATURDAY

Code Word — TEMPERANCE and SELF-CONTROL

Saturday is named for the Roman God Saturn. A day for the beautiful in life. Temperance and Self-Control are the reasons for beauty, health, longevity and personal purity. If the action is going to hurt you physically, spiritually, or mentally, it is a sin. Temperance and Self-Control are the golden bridles by which we can drive the golden horses of success. Live not like Dame Nature's step children, but as her own beloved brood by self-control alone. If we control our appetites and our tempers, we can master any situation.

GO-GETTERS

1. Are you striving to increase your earnings?
2. Do you like to convert people to your views?
3. Do you have an emphatic way of talking?
4. When things go badly, do you work all the harder?
5. Regardless of obstacles, do you usually finish
6. Do you enjoy having responsibility?
7. Do you like to be the one who gives the orders?
8. Are you annoyed when others boss you?
9. Are you pretty strict with those working with you?
10. Do you start most things confidently?
11. Do you usually have your own way easily?
12. Are you pretty confident of your ability?

Note: Average man has 4 YES. Average woman has 3 YES. If you have 7 or more YES, you are a go-getter, have great conceit, and are inclined to be ruthless, which is good for your personal success.

LOVE: This is the day for enjoyment, for relaxation, for pleasure, so throw your worries, burdens and cares away, and enjoy yourself to the fullest.

MONEY: Do not consider the spending of your money today too closely, for this is the day dedicated to your holiday.

HEALTH: This is the day that you may eat the foods of your own choice, however, avoid eating too much of any one thing.

SUNDAY

Code Word — FAITH and TRUST

Faith and Trust are the two words that are most important to your happiness. The most important part of your Faith is your patience; the self reliance of yourself to yourself for yourself; the very force of your life day by day. There are no tricks to plain and simple Faith. If we break our Faith, no Faith is held with us. There is nothing as dead as yesterday's news . . . there is nothing so alive and conquering as today's Faith! We suffer not from disease, but lack of Faith!

SELF-PITY

1. Do you avoid cemeteries, funerals, and other reminders of death?
2. Do you have spells of the blues?
3. Do you cry easily at times?
4. Are you upset by the suffering of others?
5. When you fail at something, does it make you depressed?
6. Does it sometimes seem that life is not worth the struggle?
7. Do you seldom sing or whistle?
8. Do you dream about accidents, sickness, death and bad luck?
9. Do you usually move slowly?
10. Do you often think nobody cares for you?
11. Do you think over bad news?
12. Have you had quite a bit of bad luck?

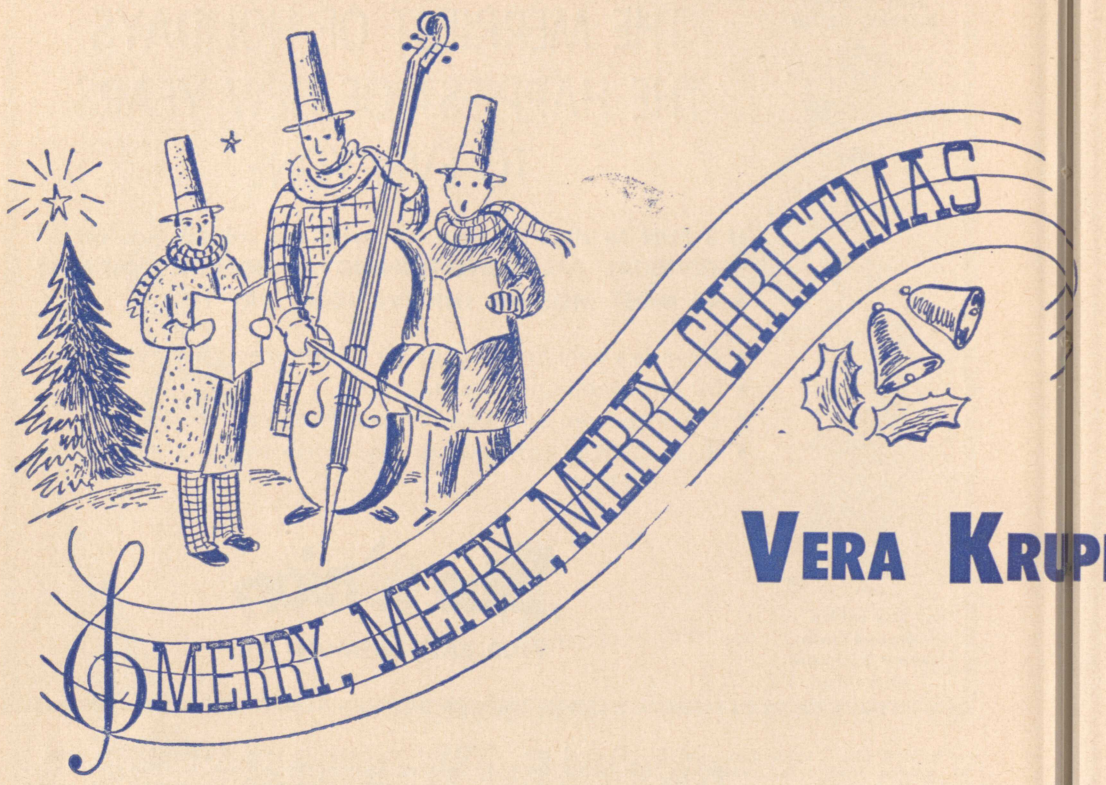

Note: AVERAGE PERSON HAS 4 YES.

Over 4 YES reveals a gloomy nature. If you have 8 or more YES, you are suffering from an overdose of conscience.

LOVE: Write a letter to three acquaintances of the opposite sex, telling them you would like to meet them. If you are married, plan spending a restful evening with friends.

MONEY: Make a list of the things you want and place this list on the wall so you can see it every day.

HEALTH: Do not eat rich foods today in any form. Sleep without the use of a pillow.

The Baton

By Antonio Morelli
Musical Director
Sands Hotel

A LITTLE boy was concerned by the extraordinary gyrations of the conductor, who threatened, cajoled, bullied and implored his men with no uncertain gestures.

After the concert his mother asked: "Did you enjoy the concert, darling?"

"I like the real clowns at the circus better," the child replied.

It is surprising how many people believe that a conductor has made contact with an electric current and that he stands there demanding complete subjection from his men. The muscles of his face taut, his brilliant eyes flashing commands, his nervous fingers twisting and turning a baton that slashes the air, forcing the very sound of the orchestra into being. Truly an exciting idea, and very good copy for the press, yet hardly the true picture.

It has been stated many times that leadership requires a strong mind, a warm heart and a sensitive ear; that the nature of such a man will not tolerate mediocrity and that perfection is the Magic Key to his success.

I believe this is true, for moulding the character of the orchestra's sound, creating perfect orchestral balance between the various players, and recreating the composers wishes are the true mission of the gifted conductor.

Conducting, as we see and know it, is a very recent art and it serves the purpose of being the missing link between the printed page (the wishes and notations of the composers) and the artistic output of the players. Through the medium of the "Batonist" the author is transmitted to the public — and, if the contact is good, the audience is transformed into one mass — one single listener — going in one direction. However, if the Batonist does not possess artistic integrity, culture and the "will" of an interpreter (that extra something that urges musicians, and public alike, to submit willingly) contact will not be made and, regardless of the great music at hand and the fine ability of his players, nothing will happen other than a complete indifference that will come between the players and the listeners.

The techniques of a gifted conductor are no less complicated and precise than the techniques of a modern virtuoso. The sound of the orchestra and its quality is as dependent on the fingers, wrist and hand of the conductor as a violinist or a flutist is dependent upon his instrument.

Orchestra interpretation, as we know it today, is a new kind of art, a product of the Twentieth Century, and one that has created a dual responsibility for the conductor. Firstly, to transform the orchestra into one vibrating sound — playing on it with his own hands and fingers. Secondly, transforming the public mass into one listener — going one way, experiencing one sound, seeing one picture, knowing one supreme joy; "The music the masters have entrusted to his loving care."

Oh yes — Somewhere I have read that Napoleon's soldiers, wounded on the battlefield, died blessing their general, a remarkable phenomenon that will not be experienced by many conductors in our time. Which reminds me of an incident — a few moons away.

Meeting a member of my orchestra on the street one day, I remarked, "You're looking extremely prosperous — how do you do it?"

He: Besides playing in the orchestra, I play in a quartette, give lessons and do radio and TV jobs.

I: When do you sleep?

He: During rehearsals.

the year's calendar. Each age has added to it, until for every one of us Christmas is a warm, cheerful, inspiring festival, strengthening us on our way into the new year. At the heart of winter, it glows with firelight, candlelight and starlight.

"It is primarily a family festival. Everywhere families meet and relations call round to see one another. That has been so ever since the strange, heart-stirring drama of the first Christmas when, under a harsh dictatorship, a lonely man and his wife due to give birth to her first child, struggled eighty miles through the winter's cold to their home town, there to find no welcome, no heart warm enough to offer a fit place for the baby to be born.

"It is a rich human experience when our generosity gets some exercise. Jollity invades the frostiest folk and everyone, however cantankerous, puts on the spirit of good will. The birth of Christianity is celebrated with the best of everything — best food, best drink, best fun, best presents, best behaviour, best nature. How right that is. Christianity is essentially everything at its very best.

"And, willy-nilly, however hardened or disbelieving we may be, for all of us it is a time of spiritual experience. We all come closer to apreciating the love of God. A love for one another stirs more powerfully than at any other time. The music of Christmas, the families united with a glow of good will, the good things of every sort surrounding us bring into being a Spirit — the Spirit of our best selves, the people we might have been yet somehow never quiet have been. The magic of the first Christmas still invades us, when a Babe was born Who loved all mankind — and we love Him, for who can help loving a small baby?

SEASON'S GREETINGS

HILLSWAY

Somehow at Christmas we feel anything is possible and a Spirit fills our hearts which defies the materialism that threatens to engulf us all."

Many symbols have become associated in our minds with the Nativity story — the blazing Star of Bethlehem; the quiet, lighted Christmas tree, the awe-inspiring Christmas Cribs adorned alike by the peasant and the monarch; the welcoming lights of candles as they beckon us to enjoy their warm glow, whether they are placed in a window, among the greenery, or now less often on the tree. What the Christmas tree is to northern Europe, the Christmas Crib is to the south of Europe. In France it is called the "Creche," or Cradle. In Italy, the "Praesepe" or Manger. In Germany, the "Kripe" or Crib, in "Czechoslovakia," Jeslicky. In Spain, the "Nacimiento" or Nativity Scene.

The sun, the moon, and the stars have always stood as symbols of the Divine, and in olden times torches, watch fires, beacon lights and lamps were used to celebrate joyous occasions and festivals such as Christmas. The Jewish and Catholic churches have always used an abundance of candles, principally because of the candle being the symbol of enlightenment, and in the New Testament Jesus is called the Light of the World. St. Jerome told Vigilantius that candles were used in church not for the purpose of dispelling darkness, but to express Christian joy. In Norway, Christmas candles are molded very wide and tall because they must burn through the night without going out, and Christmas night someone had to watch the light, for it was an ill omen and someone in the household would die before next Christmas if the candle went out. In Ireland at Christmas no one may snuff the church candles except she whose name is Mary.

As a part of the good will among men there has always been a desire to share the best things of life with one's neighbor, and the spirit of altruism which most of the good philosophies of the world have fostered leads each man to become his brother's keeper, in a small way at least. We give presents at Christmas time in our country, but in many Catholic countries Christmas Day is a time of solemn religious observance, the giving of gifts being confined to another day of the year. In Holland and Belgium, December 6, being St. Nicholas Day, is the time when the children receive their gifts from this saint. In Czechoslovakia an angel who accompanies St. Nicholas is the bearer of the presents. In Bulgaria, Grandfather Koleda presents gifts to the children, and then on New Years the children bestow remembrances upon their parents. In Denmark, it is an elf, Jule-nissen, who brings the presents. In Greece, St. Basil is the gift-bestowing patron saint. But in many countries the gifts do not come from Santa Claus, nor St. Nicholas, nor the Christ Child. They are connected with the Wise Men. Therefore, this observance of the holiday season is delayed until the Twelfth Night, at which time the Wise Men appear in Poland and Spain, and Befana makes her rounds in Italy, and Baboushka in Russia. In Syria, the youngest camel which accompanied the Wise Men is called the Camel of Jesus and he presents the gifts. In Switzerland, it is St. Lucy and Father Christmas who bestow the presents. Gifts come from the stars in the heavens in Poland, from the angels in Hungary, and from the Tante Aria in Franche-Comte. In Finland it is Wainamoinen and his companion Ukko, a mythological character depicted as being an elderly gentlemen with a long, white mustache.

Once each year we return to fairyland and if we do not go ourselves, we visit it by proxy through the eyes of each new generation of childhood. Once each year dreams do come true. Once a year we read Dickens' Christmas Carol, we sing hymns, we open our purses to the less fortunate, we trim the Christmas tree — all symbols of Christmas which warm the cockles of our often stony and sophisticated hearts.

I like the old fashioned tree the best for Christmas. It is covered with scores of objects associated with former Christmases and with members of the family. The ideal tree is one for which George, in kindergarten, makes a paper chain, more treasured than any ornament which money can buy. Perhaps Janet, 10, strings popcorn and puts a cranberry between each ten grains of corn. Margaret, 12, makes a golden star for the top of the tree. Father has been devising a unique setting beneath the tree for some weeks past. At his work bench in the basement he has been putting the finishing touches on the various objects he will use in the Pultz, as the Pennsylvania-Germans call the landscape of snow, manger, and shepherds. Mother has numerous boxes in the attic and from them she extracts some of the ornaments which she used on the first tree for Margaret. Since the earliest days the bringing of evergreens indoors at Christmastime has been one of the first ways of giving the home a festive air. In Strassburg in 1604 the first Christmas tree appeared in literature.

It would be difficult to say definitely when the first Christmas card was sent. The first Christmas card, as we now think of it, was dispatched in 1845 by W. C. Dobson, one of Queen Victoria's favorite painters. He sent lithograph copies to his friends. Most of the information above I have gleaned from 1001 Christmas Facts and Fancies by Alfred Carl Hottes.

The most universal Christmas custom is the verbal "Merry Christmas" greeting, and I want to say "Merry Christmas" not only in English, but in many other languages, to all my readers and friends.

again caress one of our "Strip" pianos . . . to JANE FROMAN, just a sincere wish for your continued well being . . . for DINAH SHORE, what can I say? You already have GEORGE . . . and DENNIS, my boy, may the DAY never come when your voice changes.

And certain is my wish that BEVERLEE the DENNIS may always "menace" us in Las Vegas . . . to ELLA FITZGERALD, may your returns in wordly goods be as great as your heart . . . to MOREY AMSTERDAM (the before and after of a recent ad), may you return to "before" but not "before" you lose that poundage. YUK-A-PUK to you and your lovely wife, KAY . . . to LARRY STEELE and all the members of his SEPIA REVUE, long runs and short vacations . . . and so, Santa, I'm running out of paper; but you know all the wishes are sincere, even though some were just in good natured ribbing. And, Santa, remember, please, to the many I may have not been able to name, or omitted unintentionally, I wish the best of everything for the coming year and for always.

Before I close, Santa, I want to say a VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY, HAPPY NEW YEAR to our Editor in Chief, VI TAYLOR, and to my co-workers DON LUND and CHARLIE BOUSQUET, and RUTH JULIAN, secretary to the Boss. Of course, Santa, I want to wish the very best of HOLIDAY CHEER and NEW YEAR GREETINGS to JACK CORTEZ (he's the Boss) and to his Princess, ETTA, and the managing editor, little Prince BRUCE BARTON CORTEZ.

Now, Santa, before I close, a very special greeting to my Mother, my wife's Mother, my sister and brother-in-law (and an extra special greeting to them the morning of December 17th, which will usher in their GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY), and to my own beloved wife. This book isn't big enough to contain all the good wishes I have for them, so just let them all know that it comes from my heart.

Thank you, Santa Claus and a MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU, too.

We hope our friends find this Christmas, the merriest... the coming New Year, the happiest!

HOTEL was closed before the New Year was rung in.

When the FLAMINGO HOTEL employes received an overall bonus of $35,000 (for Xmas), the grateful recipients penned a sincere letter of appreciation to bossman, AL PARVIN.

We were saddened to learn of HAM FISHER'S suicide. He was the creator of "Joe Palooka" comics.

FRANK HOWARD sang with the JIMMY DURANTE show at the DESERT INN.

Over at the SAHARA, KEELY SMITH was more enthusiastic than ever. Hubby (LOUIS PRIMA) had Santa drop a couple of mink stoles on her lily white shoulders.

Handsome TONY MARTIN and gorgeous frau, CYD CHARISSE, made heads turn, while they strolled around the FLAMINGO HOTEL.

RENE and RALPH GRECO dreamed about their May date with the Stork. (He is Maitre d' HOTEL SAHARA.)

We wished a happy birthday (January 6th) to DANNY THOMAS and SOPHIE TUCKER (January 13th).

At the RIVIERA HOTEL, MILTON BERLE amazed dealers with his card tricks.

The TSOURAS family reopened the GOLDEN SLOT CASINO.

FRED WARING personally chose individual gifts for the HOTEL SAHARA dining room employes, to designate his appreciation for their support and cooperation.

At the LAS VEGAS BOWL, "DUSTY" SPRINGSTON offered gift and cash certificates to bowlers for high series and high games, during each night of league play.

BART LYTON and his associates received felicitations upon the unveiling of the new building (South Fifth), housing their FIRST WESTERN SAVINGS & LOAN ASSOCIATION.

At the DESERT INN, FRANKIE LAINE had to jump in to fulfill JIMMIE DURANTE'S final week. The comedian had to leave earlier in order to discharge previous TV commitments.

Numismatism was really gripping FLV residents. With all the coins on display in our town, we wondered why people hadn't flocked to coin collecting long before this. (Naturally, it had been our personal hobby for quite a while.)

BEN STACK (of the Imperial Coin Co.) was proud of Dad's (JOSEPH B.) quite in the February issue of "Focus" magazine. It was included in the article: "Big Money For Your Small Change."

GRETA GARBO was purported to have instituted suit against "Life" magazine for $710,000. She didn't care for

ROBERT DUMAS (of Hollywood) and MAXINE BRISSENDEN (cigarette girl at the NEW FRONTIER HOTEL) exchanged a double whammy and planned on wedding bells for the future.

The GEORGE GORDONS (of the DESERT INN) moved into their new home at Paradise and Desert Inn Roads.

It was rumored that BILL MILLER and his associates planned to take over the DUNES HOTEL.

JANIS PAIGE and ARTHUR STANDER were married in the little Church of the West. A reception followed in the NEW FRONTIER'S Cloud Nine Lounge.

SID MILLER and IRIS BURTON planned to attend their own nuptials. Sid's buddy, DONALD O'CONNOR, was breaking all records in the HOTEL SAHARA'S Congo Room.

JOHN MARINO arranged to advise all shoe conscious women at the Spring fashion show, held at DANNY SIMMONS' FRENCH BOOTIER.

The SAM LEBEAUS welcomed a ten pound heiress in Phoenix on January 8th.

FRONTIER HOTEL on its First Anniversary.

A marathon birthday party, lasting 101 hours, greeted the festive patrons who arrived to help the New Frontier celebrate.

Home owners opened their private doors to accommodate the overflow of tourists in FLV.

We applauded our FLV publicists for their efforts to avoid written distortion of the truth.

JUDY GARLAND was being wooed by enticing contracts to appear in FLV.

FRANK SINATRA put in a one week stint at the SANDS HOTEL, prior to his trip to Spain, to co-star in a flicker with CARY GRANT and SOPHIA LOREN.

While on a fishing trip, IRVING DEVINE fractured his ankle, leaping from his schooner onto an Island in the Bahamas.

Causing talk downtown were the new murals (made of sectional pieces of cork) at JOE W. BROWN'S HORSESHOE CLUB. The idea was conceived by HARRY DORSETT and executed by artist CHUCK DODSON.

The DESERT INN was presented with the "gold butter knife" certificate because it "serves superbly fine steaks which can be cut with just such an instrument."

COL. THOMAS PARKER enthused over his new discovery, ELVIS PRESLEY.

HOWARD KEEL was rehearsing a new act (prepared by CHARLES O'CURRAN) for his SANDS HOTEL return engagement.

We discovered LE ROY PRINZ (Show Producer at the HOTEL EL RANCHO VEGAS) was a fellow numismatist.

EVELYN and ALLARD ROEN (of the DESERT INN) welcomed their heiress (MELISSA), March 28th.

Birthday wishes went winging to the East to AL BARTON (April 7th).

LEE and BUDDY GROVER signed the stork to a Fall date.

Rumor had it that ARTHUR BLAKE had been considered for a film, casting him in thirty-three diversified roles.

BEN STACK "batched it" at his IMPERIAL COIN CO. while his frau and brood visited the East.

The 1956 SCOUT-O-RAMA was set for June 2nd, at CASHMAN FIELD.

April 14, 1956

At the FLAMINGO HOTEL, President AL PARVIN predicted the FLV population would increase to 350,000 — 500,000 in ten or fifteen years. The Flamingo helmsman also felt big business and important industry would eventually make a move here.

The BILL CLIFFORDS (ork leader) welcomed a son, WILLIAM HENRY CLIFFORD, III on March 8th.

We wagged our finger in shame at the Alabamans who attacked NAT ("King") COLE.

Along with an artificial limb and cane, RED RAPPAPORT was back at his job in the pit at the SANDS HOTEL.

At JOE W. BROWN'S HORSESHOE CLUB, JUNIOR BELLIPIANNI explained how he had lost seventy-two pounds in five months time.

EDDIE MOSS was back in action as swing shift boss and assistant to (Casino Mgr.) JOHN HUGHES at the HOTEL SAHARA.

The FREMONT HOTEL was insisting on an early May opening.

BILLY WARD and his DOMINOES took time out from their HOTEL SAHARA engagement to cut eight sides for DECCA in Hollywood.

LILI ST. CYR did a take-off on GRACE KELLY'S honeymoon over at the HOTEL EL RANCHO VEGAS.

Our Managing Editor (BRUCE BARTON CORTEZ) was treated to his first western outfit.

April 28, 1956

Front Cover: Fourth Annual Tournament of Champions.

After devoting many years to our hobby of numismatism, we were forced "out of business' by thieves who stole into the night with our fabulous collection. (And never found the culprits.)

In the RIVIERA HOTEL lounge, the SALMAS BROTHERS dished out a smooth treatment of "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing."

ELVIS PRESLEY'S appearance at the NEW FRONTIER HOTEL was considered the FLV entertainment scoop of the year.

Two gracious stars held rein at the HOTEL SAHARA: LILLIAN ROTH and KATHERINE DUNHAM.

TOM DUGAN'S blasting of FLV via his Los Angeles telecasts proved to boost our popularity.

The LIBERACE show was loaded with advance reservations at the RIVIERA HOTEL.

The bowling team we sponsored brought home the trophy. The quartette was comprised of MAXINE McMICHAEL, BERNICE CLAFFEY, CHARLOTTE BARRY and ETTA CORTEZ.

We thanked AL TURNER for his written bouquets in the "On The Town" Chicago column. . . . Also FRANK FUNGE (the IVAN PAUL) of the SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER.

HARRY DORSETT designed the float for the HORSESHOE CLUB'S entry in the Helldorado Parade.

WALTER JACOBS, owner of New Hampshire's L A K E TARLETON, joined the Fourth Estaters. He penned two columns, substituting for GEORGE BOURKE, in the Miami Herald.

REGGIE THE CLOWN offered Whistling instructions to children at the LAST FRONTIER'S WESTERN VILLAGE PLAYGROUND.

The STAN FAYMANS (of BOND'S JEWELERS) played host to both sets of their parents.

Broadway kept on loving SAMMY DAVIS, Jr. in "Mr. Wonderful."

Local record shops did a bust-up sell-out biz on MARY KAYE'S (HOTEL SAHARA) recording of "Night In Las Vegas."

AUDREY HEPBURN and hubby, MEL FERRER, walked along Fremont St. sans recognition.

At the RIVIERA HOTEL, Maitre d' JACK DENISON explained he had never before been so deluged with reservations as he had been for the PHIL SILVERS ("Sgt. Bilko") show.

ELVIS PRESLEY became the hottest thing on records.

CHIQUITA & JOHNSON were entering their sixth consecutive month in New York at LOU WALTER'S LATIN QUARTER.

We enjoyed the ROBINSON-OLSEN fight on TV and caught JACK ENTRATTER (SANDS HOTEL) and JOE GLAZER (ASSOCIATED BOOKING CORP.) at ringside.

We were delighted to see BERNIE EINSTOSS in FLV. While visiting at the NEW FRONTIER, he spoke of opening his BAL TABARIN at Lake Tahoe for the Summer season, June 24th. He was also readying his new Reno club across from HAROLD'S CLUB (tentatively named, "Reno's Horseshoe Club)!

An overwhelming crowd attended the May 18th opening of the FREMONT HOTEL, downtown. Opening date plans were then being formulated for the new SILVER PALACE.

JAKE FREEDMAN (of the SANDS HOTEL) was receiving more publicity in Europe than PRINCE RANIER.

HARVEY BERNHARDT was back at the BALI HAI APARTMENTS for a short visit.

A State License was granted the DUNES HOTEL and we sent our good wishes to MAJOR A. RIDDLE, BOB RICE and BILL MILLER.

MIKE RENIS was back in action as swing shift floorman at the NEW FRONTIER HOTEL.

RENEE MOLNAR opened at the HOTEL EL RANCHO VEGAS with her own line of girls May 23rd and was given billing.

FRENCHY (head bus boy) and NICK KELLY (manager of the Copa Room — SANDS HOTEL) trained pigeons on the desert during the daytime.

A tremendous rebellion met the removal of one of the two daily direct flights between here and San Francisco.

The FRANKIE HUDECS were infanticipating in November. (He was then drummer with the MARY KAYE TRIO at the HOTEL SAHARA.)

The most delicious hot dogs were being served by "Little Willie" in the NEW FRONTIER HOTEL Cloud 9 Lounge.

Nostalgia held rein at the HOTEL EL RANCHO VEGAS, when GLORIA DE HAVEN appeared with her famous dad, CARTER DE HAVEN.

Arrangements were made for an eight million dollar shopping center on the fifty-acre triangle, where E. Charleston meets E. Fremont on the Boulder Highway. The center is to be developed by ARTHUR A. DESSER, HAROLD GARFIELD, JOSEPH BANDLER (all of Beverly Hills), MILTON PRELL (of the HOTEL SAHARA) and HOWARD CHANN (of San Francisco). Tentative name — THE PLAZA.

The SILVER PALACE held its preview opening May 25th. The club's interior was hailed as a tribute to contemporary design. Grand Opening was set for June 8 thru the 10th.

CHARLES O'CURRAN was in FLV at the RIVIERA HOTEL. He planned a Fall wedding with PATTI PAGE upon his return from Copenhagen.

RUBY KOLOD, General Mgr. of the DESERT INN, applied to the State Tax Commission for a four per cent interest in Lake Tahoe's CAL NEVA LODGE.

The BEN STACKS (of the IMPERIAL COIN CO.) set a January Stork date.

JERI and JACK SNYDER (of SNYDER'S) attended her son's (WALTER JALLINS) wedding in Hollywood. Blushing bride was ELAINE GOLDMAN.

When JANIS PAIGE opened at the NEW FRONTIER HOTEL, a ringside table contained PEGGY KING, JANE POWELL and ESTHER WILLIAMS.

JOE E. LEWIS (HOTEL EL RANCHO VEGAS) took a busman's holiday at the SILVER SLIPPER and howled at HANK HENRY'S comedy.

SIGRID MACEY was back in FLV with her groom, TOM McGOWAN, pianist with the BOB BRAMAN TRIO, then at the SHOWBOAT HOTEL.

ROSEMARY and CARLOS BIANCA (of JOE W. BROWN'S HORSESHOE CLUB) contracted the Stork for a special family addition.

MARY KAYE (HOTEL SAHARA) had her Stork date set for the Christmas holidays.

DAVE VICTORSON left the SILVER SLIPPER and became Host in the NEW FRONTIER HOTEL'S Cloud 9 Lounge.

A lip ailment forced trumpeter ZIGGY ELMAN out of the MICKEY KATZ combo in the Cloud 9 Lounge. Replacing him was SHORTY SHEROCK, last seen here with the BETTY HUTTON show.

Patrons admired the new "Porte Cochere" at the entrance of the HOTEL EL RANCHO VEGAS.

PANCHO (maitre d' DESERT INN) and his wife set August 12th as their date of departure for Europe.

HARRY RANIER (pit boss at the NEW FRONTIER HOTEL) was also in the hospital.

NAT "King" COLE'S August 3rd concert at the HOLLYWOOD BOWL was a sell-out a month in advance.

TED LEWIS was set for a July 22nd guest shot on ED SULLIVAN'S tv show.

In the first six months of this year JOE W. BROWN'S HORSESHOE CLUB paid out a startling jackpot figure that went over the two million mark.

The FEDERATED REPUBLICAN WOMEN'S CLUB planned a fashion show at the NEW FRONTIER HOTEL pool, August 28th, featuring fashions by SYDNEY'S.

The GEORGE FURSTS welcomed a boy on July 15th. (Dad is a dealer at the RIVIERA HOTEL.)

July 28, 1956

Front Cover: JEFFIE LEE BOYD, a Renee Molnar dancer of the HOTEL EL RANCHO VEGAS.

TERESA BREWER bit into an English Muffin at the HOTEL SAHARA and discovered it was a bagel. The mistake cost Miss Brewer a broken tooth.

August 21st was set as VARIETY CLUB Tent No. 39's "Night of Stars" at CASHMAN FIELD.

Without interrupting the normal routine, AL LANDSMAN did some major remodeling at the RIVIERA HOTEL. (Al heads the TOWN & COUNTRY INTERIORS.)

When LAVALLE JOHNSTON returned to her post at JOE W. BROWN'S HORSESHOE CLUB, her fellow employes presented her with a chocolate donut that measured thirty by 3½ inches.

NANCY SINATRA, Jr. planned a special trip to FLV to catch HARRY BELAFONTE at the RIVIERA HOTEL and GISELLE MacKENZIE at the FLAMINGO HOTEL.

We visited with our adopted mother, DR. MARGARET CHUNG, at the HOTEL EL RANCHO VEGAS.

At the HOTEL SAHARA, maitre d' RALPH GRECO was walking on cloud eight. He and his wife became the parents of an heiress July 7th.

ABDU AMIN was making the rounds with his bride, the former JOAN WHITNEY. Mrs. A. was a showgirl at the NEW FRONTIER HOTEL when
