Historical Background

The Young Electric Sign Company (YESCO) was founded by Thomas Young, Senior (1895-1971) in 1920 in Ogden, Utah. YESCO built many of the neon signs in and around Las Vegas, Nevada and Reno, Nevada, as well as other Western states. It was one of the first companies to create neon signs for customers in the Intermountain West, including Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, and Nevada. The company eventually grew from five to nearly two thousand employees in multiple states.

Thomas Young, Senior trained as a sign writer as a youth in England and arrived in the United States with his family when he was 15 years old. In 1920, he borrowed $300 from his father, George W. Young, and founded his own company, specializing in lighted signs, wall-painted advertisements, gold-lead lettering, and coffin plates. During the 1920s, YESCO began manufacturing neon tubing and selling neon signs in the Western United States. Despite the Great Depression, YESCO expanded their business to Nevada and opened a branch office in Las Vegas in the 1940s. They built many of the iconic Las Vegas signs, including Vegas Vic, the Welcome to Fabulous Las Vegas sign, and signs for many hotels and casinos, including the Stardust, Circus Circus, Aladdin, Sahara, Riviera, and Caesar's Palace. Additionally, they created signs for many theaters, restaurants, banks, gas stations and other businesses in Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Arizona, California, and Wyoming.

Thomas Young, Junior (1928-) worked for YESCO and was named company president in the 1960s. He photographed and/or filmed almost every sign the company made during the post-war boom in Las Vegas and other local markets, capturing images of early neon signs on Fremont Street and the growth of the Las Vegas Strip during the 1950s. Young family members continue to be actively involved in the management of YESCO and expanded the business to include additional national and international franchises.
