Oral history interview with Paul Hejmanowski conducted by Lois M. Goodall on March 13, 2014 for West Charleston Neighborhoods-- An Oral History Project of Ward 1. Paul Hejmanowski in this interview recalls his family moving to Las Vegas, Nevada in 1972 and his first impressions of the city and its people. Hejmanowski then discusses his children's activities at Lorenzi Park and traveling to an area near Caliente to cut down their Christmas tree. Hejmanowski also discusses how Las Vegas has changed greatly since 1972 regarding various services, particularly in the number of justices and lawyers there today. Additionally he discusses how the style of office work has also changed from having dial phones, typewriters, duplicating machines to bringing in modern technology which makes the business of law much easier for both attorneys and clients. Digital audio, transcript, and photographs available.
